Industry District Flooded

Evacuation in Kansas City West Bottoms As Thousands Are Made Homeless

KANSAS CITY, July 13—(P)—Turbulent flood waters poured over levees at this metropolitan confluence of the Kansas and Missouri rivers today, and flooded industrial areas and a plant supplying half of the city's drinking water.

The Turkey Creek pumping station was shut down with 40 workmen marooned inside by flood water from the Kansas river. The workmen were not regarded as in immediate danger, however.

Immediate evacuation of the city's vital central industrial district was ordered.

Rolling in muddy crests out of eastern Kansas where scores of cities and towns were struggling with overflows, the Kansas (Kaw) river by midmorning had inundated the Armourdale and Argentine districts of Kansas City, Kas. Then levees on the east, protecting the Missouri side, began crumbling.

Forced To Shutdown

City Manager L. P. Cookingham immediately ordered evacuation of the industrial district for the first time since 1903. In this area lie the city's famous stockyard, the Livestock Exchange building, the American Royal stock show arena, the Armour and Co. packing plant, numerous other heavy industries and the Burlington and Frisco railroads round-houses.

The flood began backing up through city sewers. The Turkey Creek pumping station of the city water plant was threatened and shut down. More than 600,000 persons using city water were asked to conserve supplies in anticipation of a shortage. The city water system also supplies many suburban communities.

Officials declined to estimate damage, but said it would be staggering after water began entering Armourdale at the West Kansas Avenue bridge and swept eastward with an ugly surge. It spread rapidly and engulfed the area, more than two miles long, in less than three hours.

While the record crest still was far up the river, the flow into the Missouri river here was slowed because the Missouri was riding high on its way down from the north.

Officials said the only hopes for relief at this troubled spot rested with additional possible levee breaks upstream on the Kansas, or the Missouri receding upstream. The Missouri flowed eastward because the state. Its stage here was 31.7 feet and was expected to be 32.5 feet by nightfall.

Thousands Homeless

Homeless in Kansas City, Kas., were estimated at 8,000 persons. Roy Moulton, Civil Defense director, said the last of the 6,000 residents of Armourdale began leaving as the water entered.

Some stragglers left with nothing more than the clothing they were wearing after ignoring orders last night to get out.

Whistles in Armourdale factories sounded a warning when the river surged over the dike at the West Kansas Avenue bridge at 5:20 a. m. It swept eastward rapidly and engulfed the area, more than two miles long, in less than three hours. Water was 8 feet deep and rising in the west end. Swift current swept Seventh Street and Kansas Avenue, chief intersection a mile from the levee that was topped. Boats, manned by police and volunteers, appeared everywhere.

Another 2,000 persons were homeless in the Argentine district on the south bank where the river topped a dike last night.

Fewer industries were at stake there, however. A large part of Argentine is on high ground, except for 10 blocks of the business district along one main street. Water there lapped at second story windows.

The Santa Fe's high terminal yards, largest in the Kansas City area, were heavily flooded. But floods elsewhere in Kansas already had throttled Santa Fe operations to a virtual standstill.

A warehouse was destroyed by fire that burned out of control for a time in Argentine. Firemen said the structure was set by blazing gasoline floating from a half-submerged filling station. The blaze caused slight damage in a lumber yard.

The full force of the Kansas river torrent had not yet hit the Missouri river at Kansas City, but the river forecaster was predicting a crest of 32.5 feet for 6 p. m. today.

Downstream the Lexington stage was 29.1 with a crest of 30.5 by Sunday morning. Waverly had a stage of 27.6 feet and a crest of 28.3 was expected there by Sunday. At Booneville the Missouri stood at 27.9 this morning. A rise is forecast until the crest of 29.4 is reached next Wednesday.

Seamen to the Flood Area

NEW YORK, July 13—(P)—A Coast Guard plane is flying 22 seamen experienced in flood rescue work to the Kansas flood area today.

The airplane, a converted B-17 bomber, is scheduled to leave Floyd Bennett field at 10 a. m. (EST) with 14 rescue workers. It will stop at the Atlantic City and Cape May Coast Guard stations in New Jersey, picking up four more at each.

The flood rescue party will receive its orders from the Coast Guard district commander at St. Louis, the Coast Guard here reported.

New Misery In the Floods In Kansas

Planes And Boats Utilized in the Work of Rescue

TOPEKA, Kas., July 13—(P)—Swirling flood waters and continuing rains spread new misery through sodden Kansas on this grim Friday the 13th.

Kansas City, Kas. — the big $400,000,000 industrial area of the midwest's sprawling metropolitan center — and this capital city of 100,000 suffered the newest blows. Lawrence, site of the Kansas university and 20 miles downstream from Topeka, was beginning to feel maximum pressure.

Aircraft from many areas, including the coast guard from New York City, were busy at rescue efforts but lowering skies made flying difficult.

The flood claimed nine lives in Kansas and two in Missouri earlier this week but vigilant disaster relief workers apparently had prevented any new loss of life.

An early morning overflow by the Kansas (Kaw) river flooded the Armourdale and Argentine districts in Kansas City, Kansas, licking at the heels of the last of 6,000 residents who had been herded from Armourdale during the night. Some fled with only the clothing they were wearing.

Gasoline from a half-submerged filling station caught fire during the wild dawn exodus and spread to a lumberyard and warehouse. Firemen, fighting their way through the swift flowing streets, succeeded in controlling the blaze after nearly a four-hour battle. The conflagration broke out in an area filled with huge freight yards, grain elevators and other plants. Water damage to these properties was unestimated.

Water Off at Chanute
The city water supply failed at Chanute, located on the Neosho river in southeastern Kansas, but police officer Ralph Toland said that "otherwise things are pretty well under control."

Toland said that rescue operations in the flooded east lowlands of Chanute continued this morning and that there had been no deaths reported. Highways east and north of Chanute were under water.

Six feet of water doused the Martin Tractor Co. building at Chanute.

BELOIT, Kans., July 13—(P)—Aircraft of all types were being used in an effort to overcome the paralyzing grip of flood waters. (Please turn to Page 4, Column 8)

Selective Service Tests Completed

WASHINGTON, July 13—(P)—Selective Service examinations have been completed for college men who wish to be deferred from military service next fall.

But the figures showed that only one male student in three bothered to take the test—some 380,000 out of the total 1,059,000 enrolled in colleges and universities. Results of the tests must be in the hands of local draft boards by Aug. 30, selective service said.

Sanction Fund on Air Base

Armed Services Committee In Approval For $22,462,000 Outlay

Sedalia Air Force Base at Knob Noster has been approved by the House Armed Services committee for the full amount requested by the Air Forces for reactivation—a message received early this morning from Thomas C. Hennings, Jr., United States Senator.

According to the message received by the Democrat from Senator Hennings, the matter has been sent to the House Committee on Appropriations for its action. As soon as the Appropriations Committee has acted on the Air Force request it will be sent to the floor of the house for its action and then to the United States Senate for action.

In $700,000,000 Program
Sedalia is among 48 other Air Force bases within the United States on the $700,000,000 expansion program. Also given tentative authorization is Grandview Airport, Kansas City, for $19,019,000.

The Armed Services committee has been conducting a hearing on the appropriation asked by the military, and a special meeting of the committee was held, Thursday night, at which the 48 air bases were approved among them being Sedalia and Grandview.

The bases, considered at the special meeting, are mainly tactical and fighter installations whose main jobs would be to protect the Nation against an enemy air attack.

Confident of Sanction
According to Senator Hennings the Sedalia base tentatively has been designated for medium bombers, however, it was explained other military would probably be stationed at the base. Recently Senator Hennings it was very doubtful that either Congress or the Senate would reject the requests of the Air Force on the reactivation of a number of bases because of the defense program.

Confident the Sedalia Air Force base would receive the full amount requested for rebuilding of buildings, runways, and other physical structures at the military installation.

Senator Hennings in an interview by a local newspaperman recently stated he did not care to give an estimated time as to when the actual construction would begin at the air base. He said the Defense Department's appropriation request of committees on Armed Services and Appropriation, then be passed upon by the House and Senate.

The Senator would not venture an estimate of time as to when the bill would clear all channels and to the time of reactivation and construction would start at the SAFB. He did indicate, however, it would not take long as soon as the Air Force was assured of the funds necessary for construction for contracts to be let and work to start.

The Defense Department's proposed program for its plan to build up the Army, Navy, Marine and Air Force installations at home and overseas calls for an over-all budget of $6,561,262,000 (B).

State Fair Tie to Governor

Governor Forrest Smith is shown here receiving one of the attractive Missouri State Fair tickets presented recently by Col. E. L. Preston and Fred P. Schell, Jr., both of Liberty, on behalf of William E. "Bill" Preston, secretary-manager of the fair. The tickets are Missouri mule and has the fair name and dates: Aug. 18-26. Colonel Preston is the father of the fair secretary and is serving on the publicity staff of the fair. Schell is superintendent of the fair's horse show. Mr. Preston is editor of the Liberty Tribune, Missouri's oldest newspaper, and was formerly associated with the fair as publicity director for the 1938 Fair.

Shriners in a Start Home

Staged a Circus Like Parade in New York City

NEW YORK, July 13—(P)—A hundred thousand Shriners started saying their goodbyes to New York today after showing Broadway how to put on a real extravaganza.

Twenty thousand of the nobles treated the town to a five-hour fun fest that wound up at Times Square at 12:20 a. m. (EST).

Police estimated that 2,500,000 persons watched the Shriners' parade which started at 85th Street and Fifth Avenue and wound through midtown. The crowd in the Times Square area alone was estimated at 250,000 at midnight.

The circus-like parade was studded with bands, colorful costumes and every zany bit of showmanship the feeble visitors could think up.

It was the last big public show of the 77th annual convention of the ancient Arabic order, nobles of the mystic Shrine, which ends today.

Last night's show, and Tuesday's daylight parade, along with convention side-shows both day and night, have given New Yorkers almost as much fun as the visiting Shriners have had.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, himself a Shriner, and Mrs. MacArthur rode at the head of last night's parade and then took places in the reviewing stand. Loud cheers greeted their arrival. Gen. MacArthur was presented with a scroll making him a life member of the Kerak Temple in Reno, Nev. The presentation was made by Cecil W. Creel, President of the Temple, and Sen. George W. Malone (R-Nev.), who served with the general in the Pacific during World War II.

MacArthur was flanked on the (Please turn to Page 4, Column 8)

No Way to Measure Flood

KANSAS CITY, July 13—(P)—There was no way to measure the flood which poured down the Kansas river here today.

Swift & Co., which maintains a gauge at the 23rd viaduct, said the water was six to seven feet over the measuring standard.

The nearest reading obtainable was the Bonner Springs, 20 miles to the west where the Kansas was up to 38 feet and still rising at 11:15 a. m.

Accident Report By the Patrol

Captain O. L. Viets, of Troop A, Missouri State Highway Patrol, in his semi-annual report shows his division of the patrol covering 13 mid-western counties had investigated 1,215 accidents on the highways outside of towns of 10,000 or more population. There were 5,509,211, and 54 persons killed during the first six months of this year.

In Pettis county the report shows accidents investigated: June 1, six months 54; same period 1950 61; killed June 1, six months 1, same period 1950 1; injured June 1, six months 37, same period 1951, 40; property damage estimate for June $4,430, six months $26,455; same period in 1950, $32,385. There was a decided decrease as far as Pettis county was concerned.

Permit to U. S. To Use Airfield

WASHINGTON, July 13—(P)—The United States disclosed today Saudi Arabia has agreed to let American planes use strategic Dhahran airfield for the next five years.

The State department said the accord was signed at Jidda June 18 and has provisions for a five-year renewal. The U. S. helped build the field during World War II and has been using it on a year-to-year basis since then. The field is located in southern Saudi Arabia near the Arabian sea.

In announcing the agreement, the State department also disclosed it has agreed to let Saudi Arabia buy weapons and defense materials in the United States.

Estimate Enemy Casualties 1,202,928

WASHINGTON, July 13—(P)—The army today raised its estimate of enemy casualties in Korea to 1,202,928—an increase of 11,506 since its last estimate was issued nine days ago.

The figure covers the period from the beginning of the fighting through July 4, before the cease-fire negotiations were started with a resulting lull in fighting.

Of the total, 872,737 were battle casualties, an increase of 8,738. Prisoners totalled 163,473, an increase of 343.

Narcotics Seized at Knoxville, Tenn.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 13—(P)—More than $4,000 worth of narcotics—largest amount ever seized in Knoxville—was confiscated last night.

Police Capt. Elmer Dyke said patrolmen investigated when they noticed Ralph Owens, 43, leaning against a downtown building apparently in a semi-conscious condition. He had a paper bag in his hand.

In the bag were 10 bottles containing more than $4,000 worth of pure opium, morphine pills and cocaine, Dyke said.

Cease-Fire Talks Are Muddled Up In An Exchange of Messages

'Give Me American Men,' Says Margaret Truman

NEW YORK, July 13—(P)—Margaret Truman stood beside the deck rail and sniffed the shore breeze. "Golly," she said, "the air feels good." She was back home today from her seven-week European tour.

"I'm a good sailor," the President's daughter said, "but nothing looks a wonderful as land." First person up the gangway of the liner Constitution to give her a homecoming hug was her mother, Mrs. Bess Truman.

"I had a wonderful time," Margaret said.

"You look wonderful," Mrs. Truman said.

Margaret said she brought her dad a present, but she wasn't telling what it is.

"I want it to be a surprise to him," she said.

Assorted officialdom and a host of reporters and photographers boarded the ship as it moved into the harbor. The reporters kept asking Margaret what she thought about European men.

"Give me American men," Margaret said. "Continental men are very charming but there is nothing like the gentlemen at home." She paused, grinned and added: "Gentlemen—that's plural."

"The main thing that stands out in my mind," she said, "is the very cordial way the people in Europe seemed to feel toward Americans."

Margaret said she enjoyed meeting the two English princesses.

"They are very charming and

No Time Limit On Defense Job

Some Republicans Solicitous For Gen. 'Ike' to Run

By Jack Bell
WASHINGTON, July 13—(P)—President Truman has added to the confusion about 1952 presidential prospects by saying there is no time limit on Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's European defense job.

Mr. Truman told his news conference yesterday he and the five-star general have no understanding about how long Eisenhower will remain as commander of the North Atlantic forces.

Some Republicans who want "Ike" to become their presidential candidate next year have been hoping Eisenhower could step out early in 1952 and turn the defense job over to somebody else.

They apparently were assuming he had promised the President to serve a year to get the program started and then would be free to resume his civilian role as president of Columbia University—or some other job.

The prospect that Eisenhower might still be in uniform next June when their nominating convention gets underway is not viewed happily by this group.

No Political Discussion
Mr. Truman told reporters he had had no recent discussion with the general about politics, adding he could only indulge in speculation as to whether Eisenhower is a Republican or a Democrat. Some Democrats have suggested the general as a candidate on their ticket, if Mr. Truman doesn't run.

When a reporter said Mr. Truman had declared in 1948 that Eisenhower had assured him he never would run for president, he insisted that the newsmen eliminate the word "never."

The President said Eisenhower's statement applied to 1948 and he took the general at his word so far as that year was concerned. But that was as far as Eisenhower went, he said.

The President said he himself is as fit as a fiddle and still young enough to make a good race— (Please turn to Page 4, Column 2)

Uncle Sam to Tool Up to Double Defense Output

By Sam Dawson
NEW YORK, July 13—(P)—As peace talks stall in Korea Uncle Sam today is moving to double the output of one of the chief bulwarks of defense—the machine tool industry.

Tooling up for the production of the engines of war has been proceeding at a fast pace—but not fast enough, the government thinks. So the office of price stabilization is offering an incentive. By allowing tool makers to raise their prices, the government hopes to spur them into greater efforts.

In effect, Uncle Sam is serving notice on the Reds that peace talks or no peace talks he is going ahead with a rapidly expanding build-up of his military might.

Here is the production schedule Uncle Sam is setting: The machine tool industry was producing at an annual rate of $432 million March 1. It has very much prettier than their pictures," she said.

When a reporter remarked she too looks prettier than her pictures, Margaret bowed deeply and said: "You are a very nice man."

Margaret said she was eager to "get back to work" after she spends this week-end in Washington. She plans a concert tour this fall.

Boys Report Seeing Body In Flat Creek

Group Searched Through Night With No Result

Up to late this afternoon no trace had developed relative to a report of a woman's body floating downstream in Flat creek.

Two horror-stricken boys, Charles Dalmon, 10, and Gary Fisher 12, appeared at police headquarters shortly after 3:00 p. m. Thursday afternoon and reported seeing a woman floating down Flat creek near the covered bridge. The report set off a search by the state highway patrol, sheriff's office and police along with a large number of curious citizens which lasted until about midnight.

The boys told Chief of Police Edgar Neighbors they were standing on a walk bridge, leading from the road to the water works grounds watching Flat creek when they saw the body of a woman floating face down. They described the woman as having on a white shirt and wearing blue jeans, and both agreed she must have been 16 or 17 years old.

Motorist Brings Boys To Town
At police headquarters they explained that after they saw the woman they ran to the road, tried to stop a motorist. A second car passed them but turned around and came back, and took the boys to police headquarters.

They gave their story to Chief Neighbors and the police, after which State Trooper Pete Stohr was notified.

Stohr summoned Patrol Sergeant W. S. Barton who secured his state highway patrol plane and started a searching cruise up and down Flat Creek in hopes of finding the body. In the meantime Chief Neighbors and Stohr hurried to the Abell bridge, about five miles southeast of Sedalia, and took up station there watching the raging stream.

Sheriff John Taylor was also notified and with Deputy Sheriff Lee Feaster also went to the bridge.

Rumor Spreads Rapidly
By 5:00 p. m. rumors had circulated throughout the city about the incident, along with radio broadcasts asking that anyone having a member of their family missing to report to police headquarters. Sedalians went to the scene and up until after 9:00 o'clock, several hundred persons had visited the scene, stood at the rails of the bridge gazing into the muddy waters of the drift-filled stream.

About 8:30 o'clock Fire Chief John G. Lueck and "Red" Gordy arrived with two large flood lights from the fire department. The lights were trained on the waters and the generator started. The lights were kept burning until after midnight, with Sheriff Taylor and Deputy Feaster on watch.

Boats Used In Search
During the daylight hours three boats were used in the search. One was manned by James W. Atkinson, 2101 East 16th and W. E. "Bill" Delby, 2001 East 15th, another by Russell Prall, 524 East

No Favorable Responses to a Demand From Gen. Ridgway

By Nate Polowetzky

SEOUL, Korea, July 13—(P)—Interrupted Korean armistice talks became snarled today in an exchange of radio messages.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway delivered a virtual ultimatum to top Red commanders to (1) get their armed guards out of Kaesong or agree to a new spot for cease-fire discussions, (2) let his negotiators move freely and (3) accept anyone he names to the U. N. truce party.

Six hours after Ridgway's message was broadcast and "delivered in person" by the U. S. Air Force to the Communists, Red radios sent an answer to an earlier U. N. demand.

It wasn't a direct reply to Ridgway. But it opposed at least two of his three demands.

The Red broadcasts Friday night carried a message from North Korean Gen. Nam Il, chief Red delegate, to Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief U. N. delegate. Nam said:

"We will not pass any reporters or newspaper representatives unless we reach agreement on this point."

It was a flat rejection of Joy's message—sent 30 hours earlier when the Allies broke off peace talks. Joy informed Nam Thursday that negotiations would be accepted "persons of my choosing, including such press representation as I consider necessary."

Nam's statement clashed with Ridgway's demands. It insisted on debating Ridgway's and Joy's right to name newsmen to the U. N. party.

It denied free movement to the U. N. delegation. Obviously it contemplated Red guards on the highway to Kaesong and, by inference, armed Reds in Kaesong—the third point of the U. N. commander's ultimatum.

Message Strong One
At the time the Pyongyang and Peiping radios broadcast Nam's message, there had been no direct reply to Ridgway. The U. N. commander had taken the question out of the hands of the chief delegates.

Ridgway's message was directed to the top Red commanders—Premier Kim Il Sung of North Korea and Chinese Gen. Peng Teh-Huai. It was the strongest statement yet published in cease-fire exchanges. The Red 20 commandments "unreasonable and unnecessary restrictions" imposed by the Reds upon the U. N. representatives for the interruption of negotiations.

He insisted negotiations could be resumed only in an area "completely free of armed personnel of either side" and in an atmosphere of "complete reciprocity of treatment."

Ridgway's message was broadcast in English, Chinese and Korean; from Korea and Japan; from shore and ship stations. And an air courier delivered it at the Red road block between the Allies' peace camp at Munsan and Kaesong. It was at the road block that Communist guards halted a U. N. convoy Thursday containing 20 newsmen.

Ridgway made three proposals to implement his demands. If they are met, he said, the conference can be "resumed without delay and with some expectation of progress."

Proposal Presented
A circular area radiating five miles from Kaesong was declared neutral. (There is no mutually agreed neutral area now.)

2. The conference area and the Red delegations use "be completely free of armed personnel." (Armed Red troops, now guard Kaesong and nine miles of road leading to it from the U. N. peace camp.

3. Delegations be limited to a maximum of 150, each command— (Please turn to Page 4, Column 3)

Allies Advance in Face of Gunfire

By Stan Carter
U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, July 13—(P)—Allied troops today advanced up to three miles through heavy Red gunfire in a limited objective attack on the east-central front.

The fighting, southeast of the Red base of Kumsong, was the main ground action in the Korean war.

U. S. night fighter planes shot down two small Red planes near the Allied peace camp at Munsan, one Thursday night and the other Friday.

While cease-fire talks in Kaesong remained stalled, there were persistent reports of Red buildups behind the lines.

What Is a Christian Home?
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

My days of college debating are long gone by, but some time I should like to hear a good, old-fashioned, up-standing debate upon the question whether homes have improved, or deteriorated, in recent years, say from the days of our grandparents to our own.

It would be a distinctly debatable question, and I think the decision might rest ultimately upon the extent to which home have been, and are, under definitely Christian influences. Of course, such a debate would in some respects be unsatisfactory, for we should probably find that some homes are better and others are worse, than those of our fathers and grandfathers.

But generations would, none the less, have some value, for ideal practices and trends can be roughly appraised from generation to generation, with a resulting emphasis upon moral and social values, and a corresponding discovery of moral and social weaknesses.

Home and family life has been at a very low ebb, as newspapers attest in homes of some of the wealthy, as well as among the very poor. From outwardly poor homes, moreover, have come some of the country's finest and ablest men and women.

But what of the average homes, of average people, of the good, church-going typical homes such as those in which many of my readers, like myself, were raised? I should like to know what others have to say!

father, a busy merchant, and a very hard-working one, no matter how great the pressure of the day, always found time to read a portion of the Scriptures and have prayer in the family circle—there were six of us—every morning, and often at night as well.

I am inclined to think that this was standard practice in many Christian homes and I am equally inclined to think that it is a vanishing practice. I would not lightly conclude that because this is so, the life in such homes has deteriorated or is even less religious.

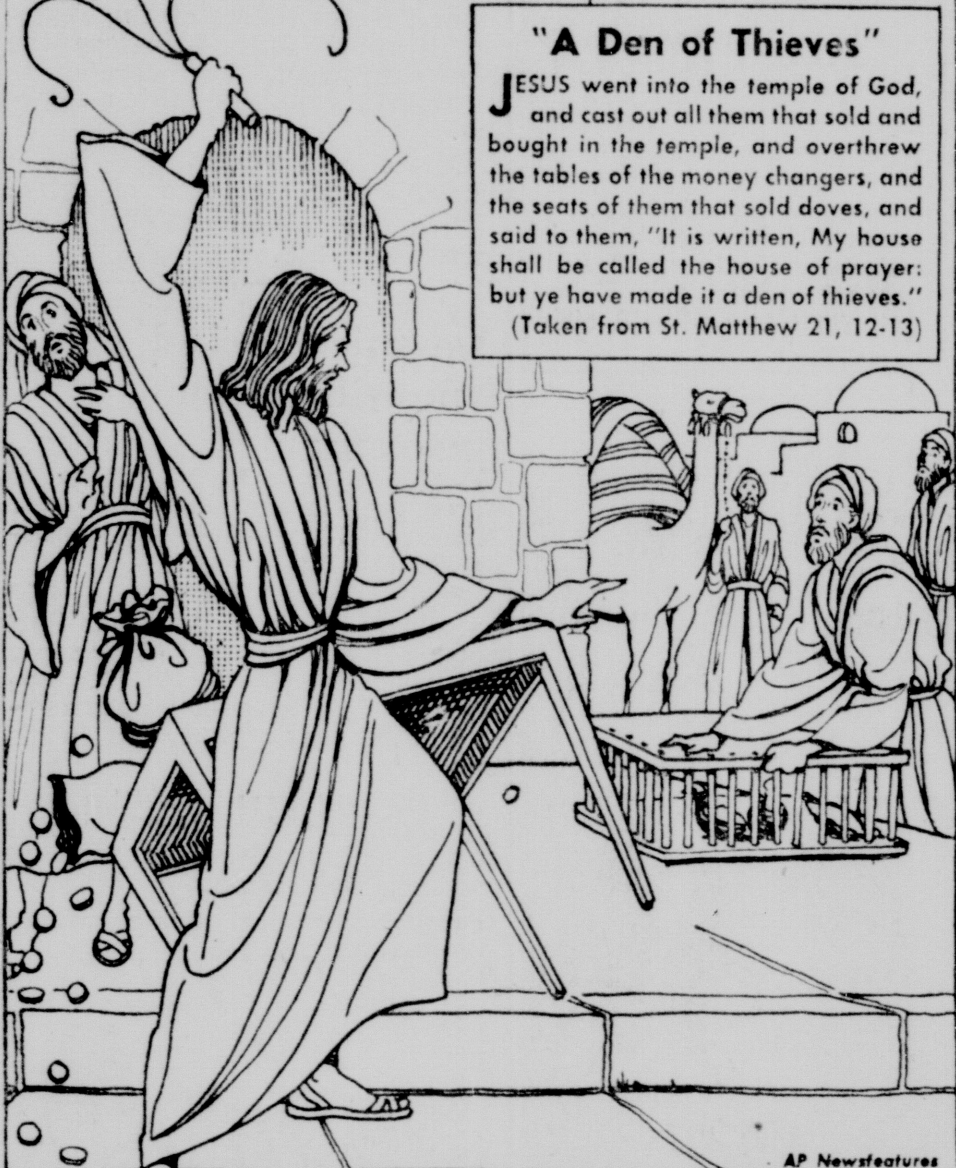

Conditions have changed, and this may account for the change, rather than any lack of Christian spirit and purpose. Family circles tend to be broken, especially in the morning, by the staggered hours at which the members hurry to work, or school.

Also, the organization and development of religious education, worship and instruction, of the sort formerly practiced in a Christian home, is now more centered in church, Sunday school, religious day schools, Bible classes and the various phases of organized religious education.

Nevertheless, one may question whether there has not been a distinct loss to homes and communities in the dying out of the former considerably wide practice of family prayer and Bible reading. It is possible that I overestimate the extent of this practice in other homes in those bygone days. I should like to know what others have to say!

"A Den of Thieves"
JESUS went into the temple of God, and cast out all them that sold and bought in the temple, and overthrow the tables of the money changers, and the seats of them that sold doves, and said to them, "It is written, My house shall be called the house of prayer; but ye have made it a den of thieves." (Taken from St. Matthew 21, 12-13)

Active Church Members

More than half the American population claims membership in some religious group. However, only a small fraction attend services regularly each week or support the program of a specific parish or congregation.

This situation drew a striking comment from a participant in a recent religious conference. He said that 90 per cent of the American people would not find their religious practices materially affected by restrictions such as those now existing in Iron Curtain countries.

For example, obliging them to work on Sundays and holy days would not constitute an infringement on their religious customs, he said, because they would not be going to church, anyway.

Insofar as this observation is true, it suggests a serious weakness in our opposition to aggressive atheistic Communism. It is obviously a weak gesture for Americans to assume the role of defenders of religious freedom if the loss of that freedom would not greatly affect their lives.

When the first settlers came to these shores, the religious freedom they sought involved both a negative and a positive right. They wanted to be free from coercion by a dominant religious group whose views they did not share, and also to be free to practice the religion of their own choice. Many Americans today have clung only to the negative right. It is sometimes said that they have converted freedom of religion into freedom from religion.

Inactive Christians would do well to recall the challenging question voiced by Christ: "Why do ye call me Lord, and do not the things which I say?"

Often the adherents of larger Churches are put to shame by the zealous activity of members of small sects. Such activity cannot be discounted as mere fanaticism. It is the outgrowth of deep, strong convictions. It comes from wholehearted dedication to a cause they regard as right.

There is no doubt that any religious group would be more effective if all its members actively supported its program. Its internal life would be stronger, and it would be able to exercise a more positive influence on the community and on the nation. Any religion that is worth professing is worth practicing.

the country as American industry in general builds up total plant and equipment as the greatest rate in history.

Defense industries have poured so heavy a load of orders for tools in the last five months, the government says, that delivery delays now average from 20 to 25 months. The defense industries can't get into full production until the machine tools are delivered, and in operation, and the delivery delays have been considered one of the chief bottlenecks in the nation's race to rearm since the Korean war started. Machine tool makers contend that part of the bottleneck is due to price uncertainties spread over the many months it takes to make two machines.

Machine tool industry spokesmen say that their backlogs of orders now total around $1 billion and would keep the industry going for almost 20 months at present production rates.

To Comply on 'Commies' Bail

NEW YORK, July 13—(P)—Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan today complied with a U. S. Appeals court ruling and ordered release of 15 Communist leaders under bail previously supplied by the Civil Rights Congress bail fund.

Judge Ryan previously had revoked the bail, totalling $175,000, on the ground trustees of the bail fund were "unworthy of trust."

He had sentenced three of them to jail for contempt of court for refusing to reveal identities of the contributors to the fund.

The 15 Communists are charged with conspiracy to teach and advocate violent overthrow of the United States government and are awaiting trial.

Ryan jailed them Wednesday with instructions to obtain bail from another source.

U. S. Appeals Court Judge Learned Hand yesterday ordered the bail from the Civil Rights Congress reinstated.

Hand held the full, three-member appeals court previously had ruled bail from the congress as acceptable.

The congress is listed by the department of justice as subversive.

Ryan's decision today was made in the presence of the 15 defendants, who had been kept in jail because of legal technicalities since Judge Hand's ruling.

In sending the Reds to jail Wednesday, Ryan had declared the Civil Rights Congress was "irresponsible" and no longer would be allowed to post bail in his court.

Recess by the Lobby Committee

JEFFERSON CITY, July 13—(P)—The House lobby investigating committee recessed last night, still without any concrete proof of legislative payoffs.

Committee investigators were told to spend the next month trying to find a man who allegedly told Gov. Forrest Smith the Bus and Truck association had a $200,000 slush fund.

They also will seek evidence whether the small loan lobby bribed or attempted to bribe legislators during the spring session.

Smith himself appeared only to a closed session a week ago. He refused yesterday to appear at the public session. He still could not identify the man who told him about the alleged slush fund. The man insisted, the governor told the committee, that his trucking business would be hurt if his name became known.

Frequently witnesses demanded that the governor appear and testify under oath.

But he said he had nothing to add to his earlier testimony.

The committee is expected to complete its hearings next month and report its findings to the legislature in September.

Police Battle Unruly Mob

CICERO, Ill., July 13—(P)—A racial housing dispute, simmering for three days, erupted into a full-scale riot last night as bayoneting National Guardsmen and police battled an unruly, brick-throwing mob in Cicero streets.

The 450 guardsmen and police fought the hooting, jarring mob and women—all white—for more than two hours before quelling the riot.

No Negroes were at the scene. None live in Cicero, a city of 70,000.

But it was the renting of an apartment by a Negro family that touched off the first disturbances Monday night. Last night's fighting, as a crowd of 4,000 milled near the apartment building, climaxed three nights of disorders.

An undetermined number of civilians suffered bruises and cuts in the melee between the mob and steel-helmeted soldiers and police cars were overturned.

Lighted flares were tossed into the windows and onto the roof of a 20-apartment building—focal point of the disturbance. Firemen dodged a barrage of rocks and stones to douse the fires.

Nine persons were arrested and taken to the Cicero police station for questioning.

Order was established at the scene—a residential district in this community of 70,000—shortly before 1 a. m. (EST), more than two hours after the fighting broke out.

About 250 guardsmen were assigned to remain on duty at the scene all night.

Twelve Lost Lives in Blasts

Explosions Occur On Thursday in Three States

By The Associated Press

Twelve men were killed and three injured in three separate explosions in industrial plants yesterday in Indiana, Illinois and California. Causes of the blasts have not been determined. Damages were estimated at more than $2,000,000.

The blast that wrecked a General Motors jet engine test building in Indianapolis killed eight civilian workers. The plant was building jet engines for the air force. An air force spokesman said there was "positively" no sabotage.

An explosion blew to bits a small frame powder plant of the E. I. Du Pont de Nemours company near Seneca, Ill., killing four men. The plant manufactures explosive powders and dynamite. There was about a ton of explosives in the building at the time of the blast. The body of one man who was outside the building, was recovered. Only parts of the other three were found.

Fire followed a series of explosions in a storage tank area of the Union Oil company's refinery in Wilmington, Calif., causing damages estimated at "about $2,000,000." Four 80,000-barrel gasoline tanks exploded rocking the Los Angeles harbor area. Four others were set afire and flames for a while threatened army, navy and coast guard establishments in the Los Angeles harbor area.

Firemen fought through the night to put out the flames which still smoldered in several tanks and connecting pipelines and ditches. Three workmen were injured.

er to send whomever he wants, but those in the conference chamber to be mutually agreed upon. Ridgway's virtual ultimatum was voiceless by his chief of information, Brig. Gen. Frank Allen, Jr. Allen recorded it on tape at the Munson peace camp.

The tape was flown to Seoul and Tokyo where it was broadcast. It went on the air from Seoul radio at 1:17 p. m. (10:17 p. m. Thursday EST.) It also was broadcast in Chinese and Korean from the U. S. communications ship El Dorado off the west coast of Korea.

Ridgway's statement superseded a demand made Thursday by Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, head of the U. N. cease-fire delegation, that all U. N. personnel be passed down without challenge. The breakdown came when Chinese guards refused to permit 20 newsmen to go to Kaesong with the rest of a U. N. convoy.

Ridgway's statement laid the blame for interruption of the talks squarely on the Reds. He said: "Since the opening of the conference it has been evident that the equality of treatment so essential to the conduct of armistice negotiations is lacking."

"Since the first meeting at Kaesong, your delegation has placed restrictions on the movement of our delegation."

"It has subjected our personnel to the close proximity of your armed guard."

It has delayed and blocked passage of our couriers. It has withheld its cooperation in establishment of two way communications with our base even though it agreed to do so immediately.

"It has refused admittance to the conference area of certain personnel in our convoy which I desire and for whose conduct I assume full responsibility."

"Extension of the present recess and the delay in resuming the conference . . . is solely due to those unreasonable and unnecessary restrictions and against which my representatives have repeatedly protested."

Stresses Good Faith
Ridgway made it clear it was impossible to negotiate "an honorable and enduring settlement" under these conditions.

He said the U. N. delegation had established "beyond any shadow of doubt their honorable intentions and good faith at every stage of the proceedings."

Ridgway said his five representatives were ready "to continue our discussions in the same spirit of good faith at any time that we receive assurance that your delegation will proceed in like spirit."

"The assurances which I require are simple and few."
"They include as primary prerequisites the establishment of an agreed conference area of suitable extent completely free of armed personnel of either side."

Boys Report Seeing Body In Flat Creek

Fifth and John Prall, 718 East Third; and a third by Lawrence Koeller, 1017 Merriam, and Emmet Fairfax, route 2, who resides near the bridge.
The boats made their way up the swift stream almost to the old dam just below the covered bridge, and then down stream while men watched for some trace of the reported body.
Prior to the arrival of the boats, Trooper Stohr had secured a rope at the Fairfax farm and took it to the bridge to use in catching the body should it float by. Emmet Fairfax volunteered to be let down into the water by rope.

Boys Stand By Storie
The boys Charles, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dalman, 2212 South Ohio, and Gary, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fisher, 415 Dal-Whi-Mo court, told a story which was unshakable. Their description, despite their frightened condition upon arrival at police headquarters, convinced the officers the story must be true.

Several hours after the report, Chief Neighbors returned to town and called upon the boys and questioned them again about their experiences. He called upon them at their homes, and both boys at different times never varied on their description nor on how the scene looked to them.

About 8:00 p. m. Flat Creek began to fall after it had been out of its banks at several places. By 9:30 p. m. the water were receding into the banks. The creek had fallen more than four feet. Heavy rains in and around Windsor which fell Wednesday night and early Thursday morning, caused the creek to go into flood stage at mid-day.

Anyone knowing of a missing person is requested to contact Sheriff Taylor, the highway patrol, or Sedalia police giving the party name and description.

Forfeits Bond on

According to the police report, Overmier was followed from Broadway and Ohio to Tenth and Ware, where the car nosed into a ditch. According to the report given by the arresting officers, Overmier tried to elude them.

Industry District Flooded

national guard to battle flood waters.

The governor said he had received requests for help from Kansas City, Carrollton, Miami, Malta Bend and other places. But the state has no funds to pay guardsmen for emergency flood duty.

For years the legislature has appropriated $20,000 for emergency national guard use. But this time, Smith reported, the amount was cut out by the Senate appropriations committee.

He called it "a very serious situation" which will have to be remedied when the legislature comes back to work this fall.

The legislature did give the governor a $1,000,000 emergency fund for civil defense but it can be used only in case of an actual enemy attack.

Fortunately, Smith said, no towns in Missouri are seriously threatened as yet. Most of the flooding so far has been in farming areas.

A flood water spread over the state more roads closed today. The last north-south link in central Missouri was cut last night when the state highway department had to suspend its truck ferry service across the Missouri river here.

Hundreds of workers had been coming into the capital city on the high-wheeled department truck. But the shuttle service had to stop when rising water on the north bridge approach got as high as the truck bed.

The river here was down 1.4 of a foot this morning to a stage of 30.05 feet.

More Routes Closed
New routes reported closed by the highway department:

Kansas City Division:

45 west of junction of 45 and 69; 71 west of north Kansas City; 2 east of Latour; Henry county K. (71 at Archie open for passenger cars only.)

Jefferson City Division:
135 east of Clifton City; Boone county M. at Wilton.

Kirkwood Division:
Route 1 at Trelout; Jefferson county H. 8 west of Steelville. (61 at Festus under 16 inches of water but detour provided.)

Joplin Division:
Vernon county V. St. Clair county B. (71 at Horton under 5 inches of water but traffic going through.)

Trains Were Stalled
ST. LOUIS, July 13.—(P)—Three Missouri Pacific passenger trains en route to St. Louis from Texas were stalled by waters of a flash flood about 55 miles south of here today. Several hundred persons were stranded but they were not endangered.

The railroad's office in St. Louis said the trains were the Sunshine Special and two sections of the Texas Eagle.

They were forced to halt at flood-swollen Mill creek between Cadet and Blackwell, Mo. A work train at the scene and all three stalled trains, scheduled to arrive here between 8 and 8:30 a. m. (CST) this morning, are expected to get into Union station about 2:30 p. m. CST this afternoon.

Mississippi Climbs
CAE GIRARDEAU, Mo., July 13.—(P)—The Mississippi river, swollen by incessant rains along its immediate watershed, climbed steadily here today but levees appeared to be holding as it edged over its banks into part of Cape Girardeau.

The river, expected to go over 40 feet by Sunday morning, already had inundated about a block and a half here, forcing several business houses to close and a dozen or so families in the south part of town to move to higher ground.

Several thousand acres, including twenty to thirty thousand acres of the worst flood-threatened points where the river flows into the Mississippi, are under water. The Frisco railroad tracks are covered by the overflow and there have been no trains over them for several days.

Even as the Mississippi edged up, more rains had fallen to bring threats as the worst flood waters in Kansas history surged out of the plains country into the Missouri at Kansas City to their road across the state to the Mississippi.

Three Missouri Pacific passenger trains on their way from Texas to St. Louis were caught in a flash flood on a Mill Creek near Blackwell, Mo. A work train at the scene and all three stalled trains, which were due in St. Louis later in the day with their several hundred passengers.

Upstream near St. Louis volunteers were sandbagging levees at flood-threatened points where the Missouri joins the Mississippi. Nearly 55,000 acres in the St. Charles, Mo., area already are under water and flood workers were hopeful there and at Alton, Ill., that they could win out in their day-and-night battle against the surging waters.

The Missouri was nearing a crest of 36.1 feet at St. Charles but a new rise there was expected early next week when the Kansas flood waters were expected to begin reaching there. West Alton, Mo., was cut-off from St. Louis but the highway was still open to Alton, Ill., to limited traffic.

Hartford, Ill., residents were alerted for quick evacuation, if necessary, but the levees appeared to be holding there today.

Locomotives Into River
TOPEKA, Kan., July 13.—(P)—The Santa Fe railroad bridge spanning the rampant Kansas river here collapsed today plunging several locomotives into the swirling waters.

Ten locomotives had been placed on the bridge in the hope the added weight would enable it to withstand the battering waters.

No Livestock Loss
KANSAS CITY, July 13.—(P)—There was no loss of livestock here due to flood waters that swept through the Kansas City stock yards today.

The U.S.D.A. reported that the livestock on hand was moved to a higher level in the yards earlier in the day. On hand were 12,000 hogs, 100 cattle, 50 calves and 500 sheep.

Would-be Rescuers Are Rescued

BELOIT, Kas., July 13.—(P)—Would-be rescuers had to be rescued themselves today as the Solomon river hit the highest stage in history here.

The men, seven of them, had to wait all night to be rescued. The sequence of events was this: Bob Newell, a National Guardsman, went south of the river in a boat yesterday afternoon to rescue a man. His boat capsized and he took refuge in a tree. Other men, Leroy Holway, Milton Axtell and Evan and Elwood Park went out in another boat to get him. Their craft was swamped. They took to safety in trees.

Later Jim Testinger and Gene Waters set out to see what they could do. Their boat also overturned. Testinger took to a tree and Waters made it to a pig pen on high ground.

All spent the night, six in trees and Waters in the pig sty.

They were rescued this morning when larger boats became available.

Horse Offered Free to Captor

ST. LOUIS, July 13.—(P)—A western riding horse known as Cheyenne, which has been running loose in St. Louis county for 10 days, has been offered free to anyone who can capture it.

But that'll probably be quite a job.

The fleet-footed white horse, outsmarting scores of farmers and sheriff's deputies trying to catch him, has been trampling a lot of crops and flower beds. It also has been helping itself to stores of hay.

Richard Franck, the weary owner, gave up last night, and signed a statement saying the horse could be claimed by anyone who could catch it.

I've practically worn out a jeep chasing that nag," he said.
Franck even hired a professional animal trainer for the chase. The trainer, James W. Doorn of Kansas City, regional director of the federal security agency, signed for Oscar Ewing, federal administrator.

The agreement puts into effect a bill passed this spring by the Missouri legislature. Under its terms coverage by the federal act is automatically extended to all state workers. Governing bodies of local political subdivisions can effect to bring their employees under the act.

"This represents the most progressive legislation in many years," Smith said.

"It is long past due. It shows the state is now recognizing that which business recognized years ago—that some provision must be made for the retirement of workers."

Suit Is Filed For $7,500 Damages
A damage suit for $7,500 was filed in the Circuit clerk's office this morning by Jewell D. Fisher by Rachel Fisher, next friend, against Berdie May Kreisel of the Club Cab Co.

The petition alleges that Jewell Fisher was injured in an automobile accident as a result of negligent driving of a cab driver for the Club Cab Co. and that the plaintiff received serious injuries, for which he seeks compensation.

Attorney for the plaintiff is John C. McCloskey.

Embargo Is Placed On Livestock

KANSAS CITY, July 13.—(P)—All trade at the Kansas City stockyards was suspended today until further notice as flood waters swept over the yards.

An embargo on livestock shipments also was ordered.

Personnel of the nine-story Livestock Exchange building, in the heart of the central industrial district were ordered to leave.

Passengers Are Rescued by Busses
WICHITA, Kas., July 13.—(P)—Passengers on the Sante Fe's de-nied train El Capitan, stranded by flood waters at Cedar Point since Wednesday, reached Newton by special rescue busses today.

Paul Threlfall, Wichita Beacon photographer, covering the floods around Newton, telephoned the paper that the passengers had been put on another train at Newton.

Fine And Jail For Intoxication

Grover Kabler, 412 East Saline, who was only recently released from jail is back. Kabler pleaded guilty to being intoxicated and was fined $10.00 and given ten days in the city jail.

Thursday evening after he had been locked up he obtained a piece of metal and slashed an arm. He was taken to the Bothwell hospital where he was treated and later returned to his cell.

of a record crest now close at hand.

But the center spans gave way about noon.

It was the third bridge knocked out in the capital city area in two days.

The Sardon and Brickyard bridges for vehicle traffic went out yesterday morning.

The two main vehicle bridges, the Melan and Topeka Boulevard, and the Rock Island railroad bridge continued to withstand the battering.

The Rock Island crossing also is weighted down with 15 or 20 coal cars loaded with rocks.

Customers Help Selves to Nickels

ST. LOUIS, July 13.—(P)—Grocer Frank Raines has solved his customers' complaints about recently installed parking meters in front of his store.

Raines put an ashtray full of nickels on a sidewalk stand with a sign saying: "Help yourself to change—or to a nickel if you're running short."

Customers are running short about $2 a day. Raines figures the money well spent as public relations.

Flood Damage At $300,000,000

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(P)—The Chief of the Army Engineers, Maj. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, told congress today that damage from Kansas' floods has reached $300,000,000.

He said if congress had appropriated that amount of money to the engineers for flood control works in the state, they could have controlled all of those now spreading havoc over central and eastern Kansas.

Pick appeared with about 50 officials of Kansas towns at a closed-door session of a senate appropriations committee to ask approval for flood control works in that state.

The general prepared to fly with a party of army engineers later in the day to Kansas for an inspection of the floods.

Social Security To State Employees

JEFFERSON CITY, July 13.—(P)—All state employees in Missouri are now officially covered by federal old age social security provisions.

The agreement between the federal and state governments to extend social security coverage to state workers was signed today.

Gov. Forrest Smith and Elmer Pigg, state comptroller, signed for the state. James W. Doorn of Kansas City, regional director of the federal security agency, signed for Oscar Ewing, federal administrator.

The agreement puts into effect a bill passed this spring by the Missouri legislature. Under its terms coverage by the federal act is automatically extended to all state workers. Governing bodies of local political subdivisions can effect to bring their employees under the act.

From Bloomers to Bikinis

It's the turn of the century, and taking a look at the bathing suits of that era, is it any wonder the century turned? With her covered-up look, it's a good thing grandpa had imagination. If it wasn't for the come-hither look in this "swimmer's" eyes, she could be a he. Just for curiosity, let's analyze a 1900 beach costume item by item: At left, is a vintage-somewhere-around-1900-bathing-cap. How did this job keep the hair dry? It left, is a vintage-somewhere-around-1900-bathing-cap. Next is the main part of the suit. It had the sleek, feminine lines of a tunic. This is high fashion around 1900—but it looks more like low comedy. Below are legs, clad in the 1900-type bloomers and black stockings. At the bottom of the legs were usually sandals. At the top was a girl.

One Halter Is Followed Up By Another

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK, July 13 — (P) — Arch women habit-forming? The evidence is that — in this world — they are to the average man. One way or another, one halter leads to another.

The two most popular habits between men and women in this age and day are marriage and divorce. Some deep students of our society worry because divorces have increased in this century.

Well, so have dogs, people, picnics, marriages and the number of cases of poison ivy. If you will honestly look over your own lives, or those of your parents, you will easily see why. There have been more opportunities to have picnics. Everything else follows.

Marriage is the formative period between adolescence and senility. It is the poor man's device for sharing his loneliness and responsibility and blame for being so pitiful.

The best tribute to marriage is that those who divorce turn again to marriage. Certainly the men I know do. If they get rid of one woman they can't get along with, they immediately turn to the problem of trying to get along with another woman with fresher problems.

An example: A friend of mine, despite his wife's proven charms — her drab hair, her dull eyes, her vixen memory, her complaining longshoreman's voice — threw these tested attractions over for the boyish pleasure of being alone.

For a few great days he felt less like a piece of feminine real estate and enjoyed the sensation of being young and irresponsible again.

But what happened? His secretary stubbornly objected it was bad enough for him to pay his ex-wife's alimony demands, and insisted he demand custody of his child. He did. Then, to insure a mother for his child, he gallantly married his secretary and agreed to care for her three children by a previous marriage.

Naturally, of course, he then had to hire another secretary. And, being an ordinary man, this is the problem he says he faces practically every day now.

"I am walking along looking in the windows and I meet my former wife and she says she needs $50 to buy a house dress. I peel off the money and she is gone before I realize I am no longer married to her."

"My present wife then comes along pulling one of her own sons by his left hand. She says she needs $25 to straighten his right dog tooth to make him more acceptable to our neighbors. Well, I give her my last $25 bucks."

"And then what happens? I come back to the office and my new secretary wants to write airmail to her boy friend and complains the stamp account is overdrawn $10, and how did the office ever get in this shape anyway?"

And then he gave his conclusion: "Never marry a girl, never divorce her, never hire her in your office — in fact, better don't meet her at all — and then you'll never have to trade her for another woman as long as you live. The real moral is this:

Picking up dumb bells in this world is like picking up peanuts. It's hard to stop after the first one.

A Communist Once Worked For Me

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, July 13 — It's hard to write about a man who is dead and cannot defend himself. However, I should like to write about Andrew Older, listed recently by an FBI undercover agent as a member of the Communist party.

Older worked for me for a brief period after the war and it became my unpleasant duty to fire him. During the course of firing him, I got to know a little bit about what makes a Communist tick.

If we are going to cure Communism in the American body politic, then it's important that we know what turns a man into a Communist and how he can be cured. Here is one case history in point.

Older worked for a group of conservative trade journals — a paint and varnish magazine, a bakery journal, a poultry monthly, together with the film and radio dailies and the Hollywood reporter. During the tail end of the war when manpower was short he also worked part time for me, in addition to his other chores.

Canadian Spy Ring

Andy was a nice boy, worked hard and I never dreamed at first he had any links with the Communists. But as time passed and I wrote more and more critical stories about Russia I became suspicious. He frequently argued against the columns which criticized Russia.

I recall especially the column I wrote exposing the Russian spy ring in Canada. At that time—1946—a great many Americans still were devoted to the idea that we could and must cooperate with Russia, and the critical mail I received calling me a liar and a warmonger was heavy. Older was among those who deprecated this column.

Later a friend reported that he had seen Older with both a member of the Soviet Trade news agency and the editor of the Soviet information service, which was published by the Russian embassy. As a result, I went to J. Edgar Hoover, told him of this report and asked whether he had any information regarding Older and a possible affiliation with Communism.

Mr. Hoover reported a week or so later that Older was listed as a member of the Communist party in Washington.

Next day I called Older in, figuring that in conformity with standard Communist practice he would deny membership in the party. But he didn't. He told the truth.

Dazzling Authoress

In a way this man's things more difficult. If he had lied, it would have been easy to fire him. But when a man tells the truth you certainly owe it to him to listen to his story.

So we had a long talk, during which Older said he had joined the party early in 1940 largely through the influence of Ruth McKenny, author of "My Sister Eileen," and editor of the New Masses from 1937 to 1946, who later broke with Communism. The counsel for the Senate internal security committee states that Miss McKenny broke with the party at the same time Browder had his difficulties.

Older's father was born in Russian Poland, and Andy had been ardently anxious for peace between the United States and Russia. He said, however, that he had had a few tough policies to swallow which had jarred him — one of them being the party line against preparedness at a time when Stalin and Hitler were allies in 1939, and later the sudden party switch to all-out preparedness.

He said that he had been trying to get away from the party, had not attended meetings since 1944 and was fed up with high handed Communist tactics. However, he said that it was hard to get away when you were once a member because the comrades blackmailed you by threatening to expose your membership.

He said he gradually had come around to my point of view that Russia was the chief disrupter of the peace and that her tactics under the Kremlin were just as imperialistic as under the czar.

Lippmann Had a Communist Secretary

At first I thought I could wear Older completely away from Communism and had some talks along this line with J. Edgar Hoover. I figured that if I could get Older to do a Budenz and take a militant stand against the party, he would become a highly useful citizen.

However, I also had heard that the Communists had planted a secretary on Walter Lippmann and that it was standard Communist practice to put men in key spots where they could influence public opinion. So, figuring there was no use making life difficult by sitting on a continual keg of dynamite, I let Older go.

I saw him occasionally after that and have reason to believe he threw his old associates overboard and straightened himself out politically. In fact, he became something of a small-scale capitalist, and in addition to his trade journals, operated a laundry.

And since he cannot be here to defend himself, I would like to say that Andy Older was one of those unfortunate youngsters who, through the influence of persuasive personalities, got off to a bad start, but who saw things in a far clearer light before he died.

"Stop Eisenhower"

A full scale "Stop Eisenhower" campaign is being cooked up backstage by the Chicago Tribune and backers of Senator Taft. Taft himself probably doesn't know about it, but a rough smear job to discourage General Eisenhower from going after the GOP nomination for President is being conducted as part of the regular four-year warmup for picking a President.

Initial move was a Chicago Tribune syndicated story of July 7, which inferred that Eisenhower, as president of Columbia university, is friendly with Communists. Similar stories are due to appear later.

Another and more kindly facet of the campaign, credit to Taft's unofficial campaign strategist, Sen. Owen Brewster, is to spread the stormy among delegates that the general is too busy organizing Europe's defenses to "play politics."

This is now being told Republican grass-roots leaders by Taft organizers.

WILD WEST CHARITY STANDISH BY CHARLES JUDAH

COPYRIGHT 1951 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: After going to New Mexico to forget his fever, Charity Standish prepares to leave to forget Douglas Kent, the gambler who won her heart. Doug lost all his money at the Four Aces and went $5000 to debt to Angel, one of the partners, who says that he must be her "peon" until the debt is repaid. There still remains time, Charity thought, to find out just what happened, so she goes to the Four Aces to see Angel, who is a dark beauty who drove men crazy.

Angel looked up, the smile with which she had regarded Charity Standish faded. She glanced towards the dice table where Duke Rogers presided. The tall intruder repeated the question "Was Doug drinking?"

Angel shrugged. "Men come here to drink."

"Doug doesn't, if he's playing." The man turned towards Charity scrutinizing her out of eyes half amused half puzzled. She stared back, indignant that anyone should be so impertinent as to eavesdrop on a conversation between ladies.

He was tall and lean. He held himself, as Angel did, with easy grace, and like Angel's his skin was warm olive; but unlike Angel his eyes were gray and his hair sand colored. His mouth was as big as hers was small, as generous as hers was cruel.

"I don't know how you fit in this picture, ma'am," he said to Charity, "but I doubt if you belong at all. I'd go back to the Aztec if I were you."

Under other circumstances Charity might have been flattered at being classified with the Aztec's fashionable clientele. But she was in no mood for flattery.

"I can take care of myself, thank you," she snapped.

He grinned amiably. "I doubt it."

ALL her bitter disappointment in Douglas Kent, all the im-tent, pent up rage aroused by Angel found a target in this stranger who first eavesdropped and then presumed to give advice. Her voice was shrill, unladylike—the sort of voice that before tonight she had smugly associated with women such as Angel.

"Get out and tend to your own business."

"I guess it's a good idea," he replied, his grin unoffended.

When he was gone Angel's mood had changed.

"He is right, you do not belong here," she told Charity.

"I came about Douglas Kent."

"Yes, and now that you know how it is with him, it would be better for you to go away."

Charity knew that this was true. She should flee San Lorenzo, the West. But first there was something to be done. It was utterly mad. She was a fool, but there was some sense within her that compelled her, as it had compelled her Puritan ancestors, to oppose her enemies to the bitter end, though she must crucify herself in so doing.

With care she could live on half her income, and she might get a position teaching school or as assistant librarian; or she might even marry Ed Smith, though that did seem a trifle unscrupulous.

"I'll pay you your $5,000," she said.

ANGEL made no attempt to hide her scorn. "You are stupid, or you believe I am. You would pay me my $5,000, you say, though it would take a long time. If I did believe you, why should I agree? If you paid me, I would only have back my money. It would be the end. With Douglas Kent it will never be the end. I will see to that. There will always be a little more owing; it is the way with peons. He must work for me. He will make many times $5,000. And some day, if he pleases me, I shall marry him."

"He may have to work for you, but he will never marry you," Charity declared with conviction.

"Maybe you are right—tonight tomorrow. But when he has made me a rich woman, he will marry me if I want him. And be very grateful for such a beautiful and rich wife." Her thin smile pared the sharp white teeth. "Yes, when that time comes your Douglas will swear that night is day, or day night if I out whisper it in my sleep. If I were so foolish as to let you take him, you would not mold him so beautifully."

"I want a man not a peon," Charity said angrily. "But you are mistaken if you think I wish to pay you so I can marry Douglas Kent. I wouldn't marry him if—"

"Then why do you offer to buy him from me?"

"Because I hate you," and Charity burst into tears. Angeles savored her triumph.

"Go back to wherever you came from, cry-baby," she advised contemptuously. "Go home and play with your dolls!"

Charity dashed the tears out of her eyes.

"I'm 25," she protested.

"So very grown up, no? Shall I have whiskey sent. Later perhaps you would gamble." She laughed at her joke and walked away.

CHARITY sat motionless for a long time. When she finally moved it was to beckon for a waiter.

"Whiskey," she said.

He brought a bottle, which he left with a not very clean glass on the table. In Ohio a lady might be permitted sherry or home made elderberry wine on Christmas, or to toast the New Year, but no whiskey—not if she were a lady.

Whiskey was not in Ohio, however, and she had taken a momentous resolution—she was not going to be a lady.

She poured a small drink and gulped it down. She coughed. Whiskey was worse than hay fever. The drink had only been a gesture, the picking up of the gauntlet thrown down so contemptuously by Angel.

Beware of Starchy Foods When You're on a Diet

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

The amount of energy used up in a day varies from person to person; a farmer or lumberman who is tied to a desk. Consequently a diet which will enable one person to shed unwanted poundage will be more than enough for another.

Nevertheless it does not do anyone harm to know what foods supply the most energy (or fat) and how to make a rough calculation of the diet.

The value of most food substances is measured in calories which is an expression of the amount of heat they can produce. But excess calories can also be stored as fat, for practical purposes if more calories are taken in than are used up, a person will gain weight.

The reverse is also true, but reducing diets should be carefully planned so that they will contain enough of the necessary foodstuffs like proteins, minerals, and vitamins.

In general, a reducing diet should be low in fats and in starches or carbohydrates since the latter are converted into fat by the body. Most people recognize fatty foods such as butter, margarine, fat meat and cream.

But many have only a vague idea about the starches and starch-containing foods. Sugar, potatoes, most cooked cereals, and sweet foods like pie, ice cream and candy contain an enormous amount of starch for their bulk.

As a rule these have to be almost completely eliminated when one is trying to lose weight and their place taken by more bulky foods which have fewer calories and yet fill up the stomach.

Many people, too, do not realize that while milk is more fattening than skim milk and that some vegetables and fruits contain a lot more carbohydrates than others. For example, corn, hominy, lima beans, macaroni, rice, bananas, grapes, and plums contain so

Dad and Mom Need 'Spoiling' As Much as the Children Do

Most families would be happier and better off if, instead of spoiling the children quite so much, Mom and Dad were a little more indulgent with each other.

If, for instance, instead of Mama's always insisting that Johnny must have a bike or Sue must have dancing lessons or Jimmy must have two weeks at camp, she gave a little thought to something Dad was yearning for and gave that top priority on the family's list of wants.

Or, if instead of always giving in to the children's natural desire to have fun, Dad occasionally said: "Your mother has worked hard today. How about you kids pitching in and getting dinner and doing the dishes?"

There are too many parents today who will do just about anything to keep their kids happy, but don't even bother to figure out that grownups need a little spoiling themselves occasionally. They forget that the only way a wife and husband can get that kind of loving indulgence is from each other.

Dad Likes a Pat On the Back

After all, it may be just as important to Dad to have his wife make a big fuss over something he has accomplished as it is to Junior to have Mom impressed over his getting on the school's baseball team.

And Mom is just as happy to have the new curtains she whipped up herself praised to the skies as Sue is to get Dad's admiring approval of her report card.

Parents often fall into the habit of thinking that to be good parents always means putting the children first—that children need this and need that, but grownups don't need reassurance that they are important and loved.

But Papa can take a little spoiling now and then. And so can Mama. And if they don't get it from each other, they won't get it anywhere.

Deposits in Sedalia Banks Are Increased

According to the Monthly Review of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis:

General Business—During May, deposits to deposit accounts at banks in Sedalia aggregated $10,596,000, and were 3 per cent larger than those for the same month last year. These debit figures represent for the most part checks against depositors' accounts in payment of goods, services, and debts, and are considered a good indicator of general business activity.

Thirty-One Vets of Korean War Landed

SAN FRANCISCO, July 12—(AP)—Thirty-one veterans of the Korean war from Missouri have arrived here on the transport U.S.S. General J. C. Breckenridge.

There were 23 army men and eight from the air corps.

much starch that they are difficult to take at all when one is trying to lose weight.

Non-Fattening

On the other hand asparagus, broccoli, sprouts, lettuce, spinach, tomatoes and several others are low in fattening elements.

Proteins such as lean meat, eggs, cottage cheese, and fish are almost always included in a reducing diet as are skimmed milk and a small amount of bread.

Anyone can have devised for himself a diet containing 1000 calories, 1200 or whatever number he will need to lose. It is usually necessary to actually weigh the extremely low calorie diets and it is often wise to do the same on the others—at least at first.

The rest of it is up to the person but there is this to say: if they stick to it they will notice the loss before long and after a while their stomachs will seem to get used to small quantities of food.

Reynolds In No Hitter For The Yankees

Cardinals Blank Giants to Get In Second Place

By Joe Reichler (Associated Press Sports Writer)

A no-hitter by Alie Reynolds of the New York Yankees and the surge of the Boston Red Sox into the American league lead shared top billing in the baseball world today.

The Reynolds' masterpiece was doubly dramatic since it came over Cleveland's Bobby Feller, king of the no-hit pitchers.

Feller, only hurried to fashion three no-hitters since the turn of the century, surrendered only four hits himself. One, however, was seventh inning homer by ex-Indian outfielder Gene Woodling that gave the Yankees a 1-0 triumph.

The Red Sox took a full game lead over the White Sox by sweeping a twilight-night double header in Chicago, 3-2 and 5-4. The Red Sox won the nightcap in the 17th inning to establish an American league night game record.

Outfielder Clyde Vollmer produced the most telling blow in each game. He homered with one on in the seventh inning to snap a scoreless duel in the opener.

His long fly in the 17th scored Lou Boudreau with the winning run in the afterpiece.

Reynolds walked three and fanned four to hurl a no-hitter since Monte Pearson did it Aug. 27, 1938.

Gus Zernial struck out six times but he also hit a grand slam homer to lead the Philadelphia Athletics to a sweep of their double header in St. Louis, 9-7 and 13-0.

Reynolds' first game, a home run by Hoot Evers proved the difference as Detroit nipped Washington, 5-4 to give Bob Cain his eighth victory against six losses.

Brooklyn increased its National league lead to nine and a half games, whipping the Chicago Cubs, 9-3 while the St. Louis Cardinals blanked the New York Giants, 2-0.

Eddie Waitkus cracked four hits and Granny Hamner drove in four runs with a homer and two singles to lead the Phils to an 11-6 victory over Pittsburgh.

Cincinnati and the Braves were postponed by rain.

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr. NEW YORK, July 13.—(AP)—The surprising thing about this league pennant race isn't that the Yankees seem to be weakening, but that they lasted as long as they did.

For two years you've seen the pennant go to a club with definite weaknesses, held together by two strong men, Joe DiMaggio and Phil Rizzuto, and aided by Casey Stengel's magical manipulation of his reserves.

Last year DiMaggio, after a poor season, started hitting in August; Rooker Whitey Ford came through to restore a faltering mound staff, and aging Johnny Mize contributed some mighty blows as the Yanks fought off Detroit and Boston.

This summer Ford is in the army; DiMaggio no longer is the "Big Fellow" who can pull a team together; the steady, reliable Rizzuto is slower than he used to be.

The three good pitchers have been getting their lumps lately, and behind them are guys like Stubby Overmire, Bob Kuzava and Joe Ostrowski.

It isn't the kind of team you'd pick to win the pennant, but half the season is over and the Yanks haven't been knocked out yet.

Who's In First Final checkup on the bowling season at Hood River, Ore., revealed that Dale Gross and his son, Bill, both bowled on the Websters Orchard team, which finished first in the commercial league.

Bill also was a member of the Kresse Drug team, which took first place in the city league and, to complete the family monopoly, Nell Gross (Mrs. Dale) bowled on a women's team which topped its league.

Shorts and Shells Travis Tidwell and Harry Gilmer, two of the best football pitchers ever developed in Alabama, will stage a passing duel at the Auburn-Alabama alumni rally at Sylacauga, Ala., July 18.

"Youth"—and don't forget the quotes—likely will be served in the 1951 Hambletonian next month.

Drivers of four top choices range from 33 to 39 years old, just kids in the harness racing business.

Davy Gotkin, most sought-after basketball prospect in the metropolitan area, has picked North Carolina State.

And Dough Hunsley, the Laconia, N. H., high school golfer who recently won his third state title, is looking toward the U. of Miami so he can play golf all winter.

Luke Johnson, the embryo printing magnate and assistant coach of the Bears,

Sports

THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT—Sedalia, Mo., Fri., July 13, 1951 7

was playing golf at Medinah the other day when a squirrel ran out on the fairway and swiped a brand new ball Luke had just hit off the tee. . . Johnson always figured you could become squirrely in pro football, but he didn't expect that kind of proof.

Accord on a Pacific Pact

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—The state department announced Thursday the U. S., Australia and New Zealand have agreed on terms of a mutual defense pact in the Pacific.

A formal ceremony to record the three-way agreement was arranged for 3 p. m. (EST). Ambassador John Foster Dulles, representing the United States, Australian Ambassador Percy Spender and New Zealand Ambassador Sir Carl Berendsen will attend.

The security alliance is part of the general World War II settlement in the Pacific sponsored by the United States and Britain. The basis for it is the proposed Japanese peace treaty unveiled today.

Another part of the settlement is a proposed arrangement by which Japan will let the United States retain troops and bases in and near the Japanese homeland pending the ultimate creation of a broader security setup in the Pacific.

The new defense treaty is understood to provide that the United States will consider an attack on Australia or New Zealand a threat to the security of this country, in much the same terms as the 12-nation North Atlantic Pact.

Harriman Off To Iran Soon

By John M. Hightower

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—W. Averell Harriman will leave for Iran in a day or so to see whether there is any possibility of salvaging an Anglo-Iranian settlement out of a situation which most officials here record as little short of desperate.

The White House announced late yesterday that President Truman's diplomatic trouble would leave within 48 hours. Iranian premier Mohammed Mossadeq had accepted Mr. Truman's offer to send Harriman out to discuss the dispute over oil nationalization.

Highly placed officials said Harriman will carry no instructions that would serve as a magic key to end the impasse and restore harmonious Iranian-British relations. Instead, they said, Harriman's initial task will be to try to determine whether there is any possibility of working out an arrangement at this late date.

Stop That Stopped Peace Talks

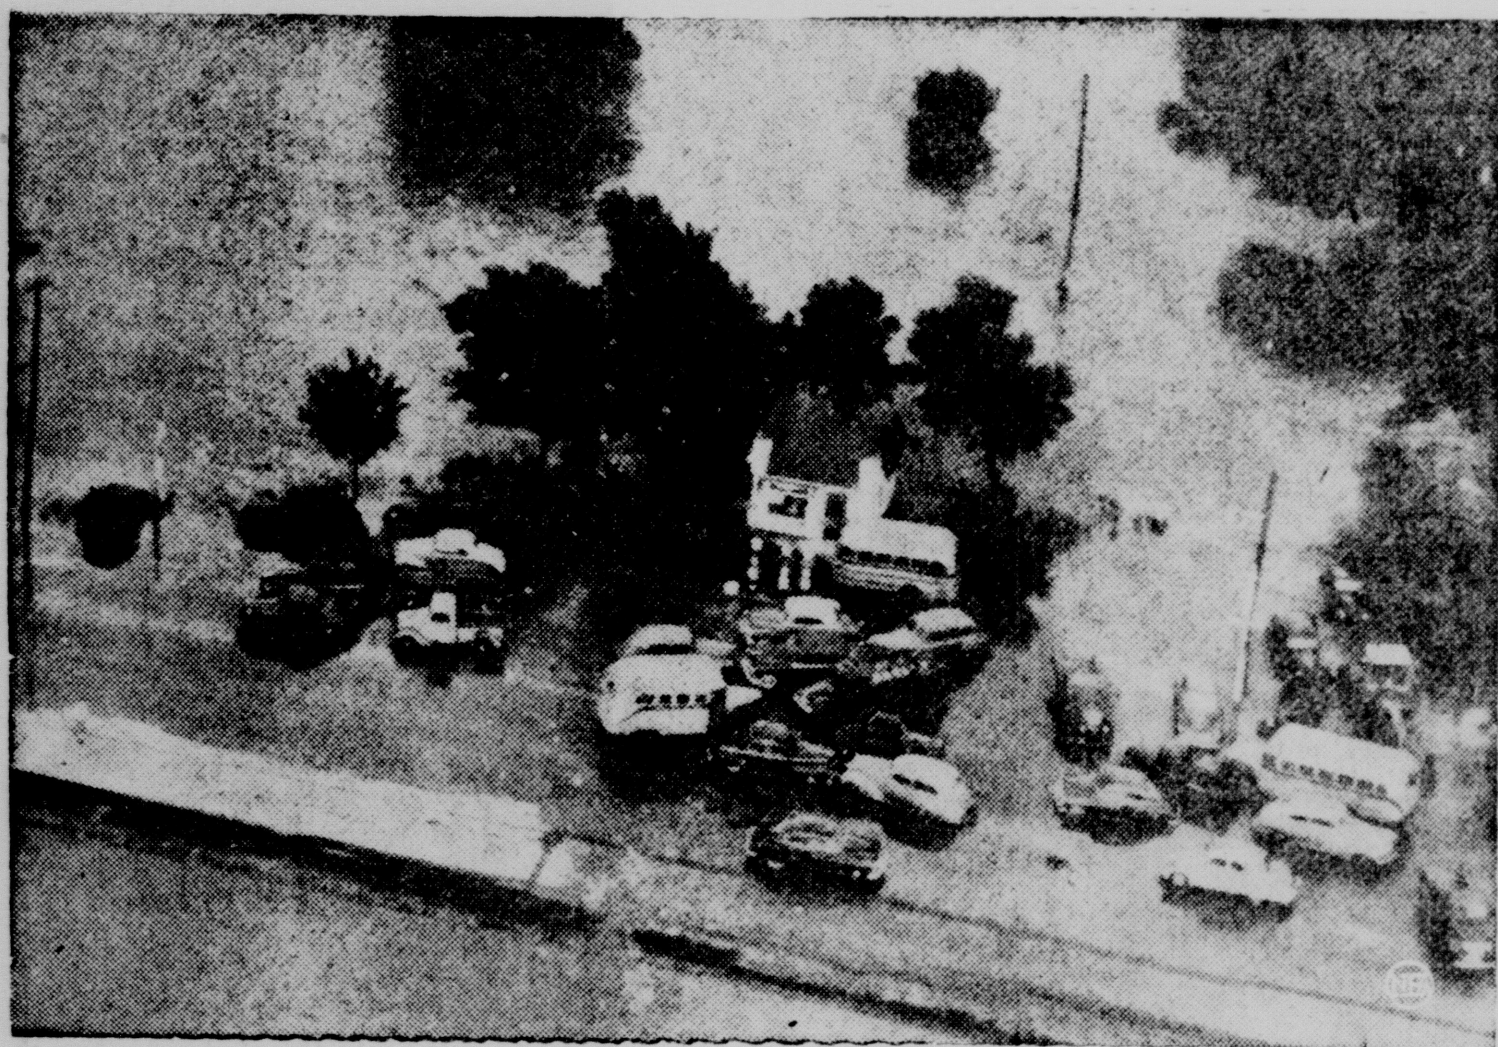

A UN convoy, each vehicle with a white flag on the bumper, is stopped at a Communist outpost on the neutral road from Masan to Kaesong as it was refused passage because of 20 UN newsmen who were included in the party. These motorists, stranded at a service station in Elmdale, Kas., parked their cars on one of the few stretches of Highway 50-S between Strong City and Peabody, Kas., which has not been inundated by flood waters of the Cottonwood river. Red Cross Allots $250,000 To Kansas For Emergency Relief

WASHINGTON, July 13—(AP)—Allocation of $250,000 for emergency aid to victims of the Kansas floods was announced Thursday by E. Roland Harriman, president of the American Red Cross. Harriman said thousands of Red Cross disaster volunteer workers are helping in sheltering and feeding those made homeless by the floods.

In addition, he said, 18 trained disaster workers were sent to Topeka and other Kansas flood areas.

He said the flood emergency now does not require a nationwide appeal for disaster funds, but all Kansas Red Cross chapters have been asked to seek financial support for flood relief.

"It is our expectation," Harriman said, "that the traditional neighborliness of the people of Kansas will provide the additional funds to meet this unprecedented disaster situation."

Worst Floods Of Century Hit Kansas

Strong City, Kas., in the foreground, is flooded by the Cottonwood river, in the background, for the second time in less than two weeks. Torrential rains in eastern and central Kansas in recent days have caused receding flood waters to rise again, bringing the most serious flood crisis in the area since 1903. Governor Edward F. Arn of Kansas has ordered the National Guard to several cities, including Topeka and Manhattan, to aid in evacuation of people and livestock.

Detour Trains Through Sedalia

High waters have necessitated the detouring of numerous trains of the Santa Fe and St. Louis and San Francisco lines over the M. K. T. into Sedalia coming through Nevada and Fort Scott, Kas., and thence over the Missouri Pacific.

Three trains of those roads were in the Sedalia yards at one time awaiting orders to proceed. A report was made that an engineer and fireman of one of the "Frisco" trains, neither fully identified, had been forced to leave their engine when it was "stalled" in high waters in Kansas and after another engine was procured came on through headed for its destination.

The Katy has been detouring freight trains from the south through Sedalia for about a week.

Thousands Aid Rescue Work In Flood Zone

KANSAS CITY, July 12—(P)—Thousands of relief and rescue workers are in the thick of a battle to save lives tonight in flood stricken eastern Kansas and western Missouri.

Besides the residents of the stricken towns who volunteered for flood work, the Army, Navy, Coast Guard and National Guard were in the thick of the battle with supplies, trucks, boats, planes and men.

They were joined by common carriers, rail, bus and airlines, which carried supplies and men to points where they were needed.

Many More Needed
And it appeared that thousands more would be needed as the streams rose to record heights and spread over the entire eastern half of Kansas.

The American Red Cross set up disaster relief headquarters at Topeka. In smaller communities the county chapters took on the task of feeding, sheltering and caring for thousands of refugees in schools, churches and community buildings.

Dozens of National Guard units were rushed to hard hit areas, Marion, Topeka, Lawrence, Manhattan, Abilene, Ottawa and Kansas points.

The Olathe Naval Air Station sent 150 sailors, and Air Force men to Lawrence, Fort Leavenworth sent men and trucks to Ottawa and Topeka.

Radio Hams Close Breach
At Wichita National Emergency, National Guard broadcast and amateur radio stations stepped into the communications breach caused by flood torn communications. Radio channels carried a heavy flow of messages to cities without telephone service.

Railroads, having been hit, were forced to emergency measures to deliver and care for stranded passengers.

Trans World Airlines today sent a four-engine cargo plane to St. Louis to pick up a 1,800 pound motor boat, a dozen smaller boats and 13 Coast Guardsmen for flood work at Topeka. Last night the same line flew 13,000 pounds of Army cot to Topeka at the request of the Army.

Civilian Pilots Fly Serum
Civilian pilots were pressed in to use. Three from McPherson, Kas., today flew typhoid serum and food to Marion, making landings on a closed strip of U. S. 50 highway west of the town. From there the supplies were taken in boats to the city.

Seven transports of the Central Air Defense command headquarters here were standing by to deliver medicine, supplies and food to stricken areas. Here also, the National Guard was operating assault boats in evacuating families in the path of the Blue river flood.

Booster Program Again Postponed

The Booster club program which was to have been presented Friday evening at Liberty park, has been postponed due to weather conditions.

Farm Subsidies Rejected

Truman Again Loses Battles In House Over Controls Bill

WASHINGTON, July 12—(P)—The House today dealt two more major setbacks to President Truman's program to hold the line on wages and prices. In successive votes, it denied the President authority to:

1. Acquire and operate defense plants.

2. Pay subsidies on farm products.

Farm subsidies were rejected by a voice vote. The proposal would have given the President the right to order government subsidy payments, mainly to processors of agricultural products.

Backers of the proposal said it would seek to hold retail prices down while at the same time assuring fair profits to processors of high-cost items.

Rep. Hope (R-Kas.) attacked subsidies as an attempt to have the government pay part of everybody's grocery bill.

Backing the proposal, Rep. Eberhart (D-Pa.) said the government's efforts to help ease the price of city dwellers' food "should not be laughed off."

About an hour later, Mr. Truman told a news conference that it is squarely up to Congress to enact the kind of economic control the nation needs. He said Congress must take the responsibility for what it does.

Truman Has No More Plans
The President said he has done all he can to get a strong, workable controls bill passed and that he doesn't plan any further action himself.

Director Michael V. DiSalle of the Office of Price Stabilization said that if Congress eliminates the first rollback on cattle prices, consumers will have to pay 10 per cent more for beef than they now are paying. He made this warning in a letter to Rep. Spence (D-Ky.), chairman of the House Committee on Agriculture.

Each party lawmaker said that labor unions "will not and cannot" submit to wage curbs without strong safeguards against inflationary prices and Carey asserted "the whole labor movement is behind that statement."

Missing Photographer Found
HONOLULU, July 12—(P)—The Hawaiian sea frontier today reported that Ted Sierks, 40-year-old crewman-photographer, lost overboard in the Transpacific yacht race, was picked up alive by a destroyer escort.

A marriage license was issued by county recorder, Malachi O'Brien, today to Harold Eugene Hesse of Cole Camp and Leona Mae Ragar of Ionia.

US Signs Three-Way Treaty To Insure Pacific Security

WASHINGTON, July 12—(P)—The United States, Australia, and New Zealand agreed today to a three-way treaty to insure an armed attack on any one of these nations in the Pacific area as "dangerous" to the safety of all.

The treaty pledges that each of the three nations in event of attack will join to meet the common danger in accordance with its constitutional processes.

Dulles Represents US
The agreement was initiated at the State Department by U. S. Ambassador John Foster Dulles and envoys of Australia and New Zealand.

Part of a general Pacific war settlement, it is expected to be formally signed at San Francisco in early September when the Japanese peace treaty is scheduled to be signed by some 50 nations.

The three-way agreement follows the general pattern of the 12-nation Atlantic treaty but differs in wording. The North Atlantic compact states that all the 12 nations agree that an armed attack against any one of them in Europe or North America "shall be considered an attack against them all."

The Pacific security agreement was worked out as a first step to a "more comprehensive system of regional security in the Pacific area."

Senate Must Ratify Pact
The Pacific and Japanese treaties require Senate ratification the same as other U. S. treaties with foreign powers.

The preamble of the 1,200-word Pacific draft notes the arrangements the United States already has with the Philippines, the plans to retain armed forces in or near banking and currency committee. Republicans and Southern Democrats teamed up to defeat the proposed new presidential authority by a vote of 159 to 139. It was a teller count, with members marching by tellers who did not record their names.

The administration wanted the provision in the new economic controls legislation, already ridiculed by the administration's critics. Democratic supporters called the expanded presidential authority necessary to the defense effort. They said the powers were specifically requested by Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson.

Republican opponents said the proposed authority was so broad it could lead to nationalization of all industry. They conceded, however, that the President did not have this in mind.

Labor leaders earlier warned Congress that failure to enact effective price control legislation would blow the lid off wage ceilings.

This virtual ultimatum was laid down by AFL President William Green and CIO Secretary-Treasurer James Carey at a Capitol Hill conference of 174 House members and a number of administration leaders.

Each told the lawmakers that labor unions "will not and cannot" submit to wage curbs without strong safeguards against inflationary prices and Carey asserted "the whole labor movement is behind that statement."

WICHITA, Kas., July 12—(P)—Rain-soaked east central Kansas is beautifully green from the air—except for the swollen, muddy rivers now sprawling destructively over rich farm lands and into cities.

You quickly lose the beauty of lush pastures and the fat cattle on them, in these adjacent, heart-breaking contrasts—small communities completely flooded—just buildings and trees and stranded auto sticking above the flat brook.

Larger cities half to two-thirds under water—residential areas and business blocks alike—with people standing helplessly by parked cars and trucks where each street fades into the flood.

10,000 Flee Homes When Floods Pour Over Topeka Dike

TOPEKA, Kas., July 12—(P)—Feverish evacuation of another 10,000 persons threatened by the Kansas river that bulged over dikes today was started here with a deadline for all to be out before darkness.

Already the river had swept away two bridges, poured 10 feet of water through two breaks into North Topeka and rolled over the top of the south dike.

Most of the city, including the state capitol, is on a knoll rising from the south bank.

The latest evacuation order was for residents of East Topeka. It came as the river coiled up a crest of 36 feet, expected to strike here early tomorrow.

This was the most sorely pressed spot in Kansas and Missouri floods that so far have claimed 12 lives during two days of violent flooding.

The disastrous flood of 1903 at its worst touched 32.70 feet, which is about what present dikes here could handle at brim full.

Evacuation of 10,000 north Topeka residents began before the levee broke today, but when it did hundreds of residents still were there. Frantically, then, they sought a way out.

Not Enough Boats Available
One official said it might be several days before all could be brought out, because of a shortage of boats.

Brig. Gen. Howard Searle of the National Guard estimated some 500 still awaited rescue. They were being brought out at the rate of about 50 persons an hour.

More boats, and bigger, were rushed in by planes. 10 by the Corps of Engineers at Kansas City and 10 large Coast Guard power boats from St. Louis.

General Searle called off small boats at darkness. He said their operation at night was too hazardous. Three, he said, capsized during the day, but there were no drownings.

Maneuvering of small craft was difficult because of strong currents as the river cascaded through two breaches.

No Improvement Anywhere
While the situation worsened on the state's largest river, it got little better, if any, on the Cottonwood, the Marias Des Cygnes, the Verdigris, the Smoky Hill, and other streams down to Freshets in central and eastern Kansas.

Another night of rains, some up to nearly 5 inches, widened and worsened the scope of the worst flooding in the history of Kansas.

IN IRAN TALKS—W. Averell Harriman, President Truman's personal adviser, will go to Iran to discuss the oil crisis there. In an effort to ease the tense situation created by Iranian nationalization of British-leased oil lands, President Truman offered to send Harriman and the Iranian government accepted.

TOPEKA, Kas., July 12—(P)—Emergency squads were feverishly evacuating thousands of persons here tonight and at Kansas City, Kas., as gigantic floods ravaged eastern Kansas.

At least 11 persons have died and many thousands more face misery and suffering.

Late tonight sirens sounded a dreaded signal in Kansas City, Kas., at the mouth of the Kansas river. Immediately residents of the heavily-populated and industrialized Armourdale district started moving to higher ground, many struggling with their belongings.

Army engineers said they believed sandbagging crews, working frantically, could keep ahead of the flood by building the dikes higher there.

"I think we can beat it by about six inches," Col. R. P. West acting division engineer said. "The river is rising slowly." The evacuation was ordered as a precaution.

Kansas for a month was beginning to have telling effects. Telegraphic and telephone pole lines swooned, travel across the area by rail and highway was crippled by washouts.

Buses were sent after 345 passengers aboard the Santa Fe's deluxe all-coach train bound from Chicago to Los Angeles which was isolated on a dry spot at Cedar Point, Kas.

It stalled there at 6:30 a.m. (CST) yesterday, and was supplied by foot and water brought in by boats. The buses tried to back roads through flint hill pastures to reach the train and take the passengers to Newton.

Another 1,000 passengers of tied up trains were at Emporia.

Missouri was having its flood troubles, too, but the worst was not expected there until the water from Kansas began pouring into the state.

The Blue river at Kansas City was out of its banks and water was in some factories in the rich Blue Valley industrial district on the east side of the city.

Missouri Rises Again
Filled with water from two previous floods which were just beginning to subside, the Missouri was rising again all of the way from Kansas City to its mouth just above St. Louis.

Lawrence prepared for a Sunday punch from the Kansas river after it broke the levee and flooded north Lawrence. Most residents there heeded a 12-hour warning, and stragglers were brought out in boats.

The army sent two trucks with 250 cots, 500 blankets and two portable generators for use at Lawrence. The supplies came from Leavenworth where three detachments of troops and a field kitchen were held ready for call.

At Manhattan classes were dismissed at Kansas State College so that all facilities of the institution could be used to care for evacuees. More than 600 refugees were being housed in college buildings. In east Manhattan moved in with friends and relatives.

Water at Manhattan now covers 200 city blocks, more than half the city's area.

Blast Rocks Powder Plant; Three Missing
SENECA, Ill., July 12—(P)—Three men are reported missing in an explosion that rocked the Du Pont Powder plant tonight. All state police and ambulances in the area were called to the scene.

The Morris, Ill., police department said the men were reported missing.

The switchboard operator at the plant confirmed there had been an explosion but said she could not release any details pending the arrival of the plant manager.

The explosion was heard in Streator, 30 miles from Seneca, and in Ottawa, 11 miles northwest. It also was reported heard in Pontiac, 50 miles to the south.

State police from the Pontiac and Joliet district headquarters rushed to Seneca.

There were no further details.

County To Send Six Draftes During July

The local selective service board has received the quota of inductees for the month of July. The quota for Pettis county is six.

Four men who comprised the quota for the month of June left this Thursday for Kansas City for induction. They are: William L. Curtis, 1311 East 11th; Roy R. Ford, 1901 West Second; Harold Momborg, 1319 East 16th and David K. Messer of Houstonia.

Ridgway Prepared To Resume Parley; Guards A Problem

SEOUL, Korea, Friday, July 13—(P)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway today told the Communists if they refuse to make the Kaesong area an unarmed neutral zone "I propose the conference site be moved."

MUNSAN, Korea, Friday, July 13—(P)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway today told the Communists the United Nations is ready to resume cease fire negotiations but asked the Reds to remove all armed personnel from the Kaesong area.

The allied supreme commander's message, broadcast over the armed forces radio from Seoul to Korean Communist Gen. Nam Il, accused the Reds of blocking armistice talks. The U. N. delegation remained at its base yesterday after armed Chinese guards refused to permit allied newsmen to go to Kaesong.

Ridgway proposed that the Communists remove armed personnel from Kaesong, the road leading to it from the south and from a circular area 10 miles in diameter around the city.

The allied commander proposed also that each side be limited to 150 persons who would be allowed to enter the neutral zone with complete freedom. They would be selected at the discretion of commanders on each side.

Only Authorized Personnel
Ridgway said only those personnel mutually agreed on by both sides should be permitted in the conference room.

The general's message—read over the Army radio at Seoul by Brig. Gen. Frank Allen—proposed that the Communists could reply either by radio or send a liaison officer to U. N. lines.

The U. N. cease-fire delegation, headed by Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, stood by at the peace camp awaiting a reply from the Communists on his demand that allied newsmen be admitted to Kaesong. Officially, the Reds have been silent for more than 24 hours.

The 20 newsmen whose attempt to reach Kaesong yesterday caused the break in the peace conference were placed on an hour's alert to be ready to travel to the conference city.

Armed Chinese guards stopped an allied convoy of 17 trucks nine miles south of Kaesong and 12 miles south of parallel 38. The guards offered to permit the convoy to go on if the newsmen stayed behind. The entire convoy returned to U. N. lines.

UN Chiefs To Stick By Guns
Both Ridgway and Joy have indicated they will insist on their right to bring the correspondents to the city.

Although officially silent, the Chinese Red Peiping radio carried a "news" report accusing the allies of using "bluff and pressure tactics" in the case of the newsmen.

The English language broadcast referred to the halt in talks as a "temporary suspension" possibly signifying the Reds expected them to resume.

The Red attitude was presented in the form of a news report of a Chinese correspondent in Pyongyang, Korean Red capital.

The broadcast blamed suspension of the talks on failure of the allied delegation to arrive, and said this was because "the Americans have arbitrarily sent in 20 newsmen in addition to the regular delegation."

Formal Reply Not Given
"Without waiting for our formal reply (to the question of taking correspondents along), the U. N. representatives had discarded the principle of mutual discussion," the broadcast said.

"We objected to the presence of newsmen and of the regular delegation. Therefore, we can only conclude that it is doubtful the Americans have sincerity in the peace talks."

The broadcast quoted a Communist New China news agency correspondent who was said to have interviewed Red armistice negotiators at Pyongyang, North Korean capital.

The broadcast gave the impression a stalemate was in the making, since the allied team at the peace camp at Munsan was reported to feel the next move was up to the Communists.

State Department Suspends 2 Members Pending Hearings

WASHINGTON, July 12—(P)—The State Department announced tonight it has suspended two high officials pending hearings on security charges.

The officials—both career diplomats—are: John Paton Davies, Jr., 43, a member of Secretary Acheson's top level policy planning staff and a veteran of many years service in China. His hearing has been set for July 23 before the department's loyalty security board.

Oliver Edmund Clubb, 50, director of the Office of Chinese Affairs; also a veteran of many years service in China. His hearing is set for July 31.

No Indication of Guilt
The department said in a statement the suspension action was mandatory under the law and "does not indicate that a person is guilty of misconduct or is a security risk; but suspension is a mandatory legal requirement (public law 733) in any case in which a hearing is held. The department made it clear that the purpose of a hearing to ascertain the complete facts and thus hearings are for the protection of both the government and the individual."

The government's loyalty program was begun in March, 1947, by order of President Truman. It provided for a check up on the loyalty of all government employees.

Ferry Stops Running; No Link Remains Open Over Missouri River

JEFFERSON CITY, July 12—(P)—The last link across the Missouri river in central Missouri closed tonight.

The State Highway Department stopped its special ferry service at the flooded north end of the Missouri river bridge here. A high-beamed department truck has been making hourly trips through the swirling water, carrying some of the hundreds who live in Boone and Callaway counties but work in the capital city.

But the truck ferry service had to be suspended when the river stage reached 30.15 feet here at 4 p.m.—a rise of .11 of a foot in eight hours. It was feared the pavement slab under the rising water might collapse at any time.

Another threat appeared on route 71 north of Horton. The Little Osage river there put five inches of water over the road and was rising an inch an hour. Traffic was still going through late today.

New roads closed during the day, the State Highway Department reported, were: Route H in Caline county, M. A. and D. in Cass county, 99 between the Missouri and Mississippi rivers and H and J in Vernon county.

Ten Deaths Reported On Late Casualty List
WASHINGTON, July 12—(P)—The Defense department today identified 33 more Korean war casualties (list No. 332). Of the total, ten are dead, 20 wounded, one missing in action and two injured in battle zone accidents.

High Waters In This Area Are Receding

Damage From Flooded Areas Is Enormous

Receding waters Saturday left train tracks on the Missouri-Kansas-Texas lines still blocked. At New Franklin and east the trains were rerouted and at Clifton City the railroad was sand-bagging the tracks to permit passage of the freights which were coming from the north.

Passenger service, however, was still at a standstill and the railroad officials could give no estimate of when service would again be restored.

Around Sedalia the highways were all open after traffic had been halted for a time on north highway 65. The highways at Loonville were still closed but it was possible to get through to Columbia on highway 65 through Marshall and from there to Glasgow thence to highway 5 and to highway 40 on into Columbia.

At Jefferson City highway 26 was still closed and water was over highway 54 Saturday though traffic was moving over it.

At Clifton City the Lamine rivers crested Friday night 13.35 feet over the flood stage and Saturday morning it had gone down .44 of an inch. Though the river was falling slowly it was expected that the waters would probably recede to the river bed by Monday afternoon.

Damage Is Heavy
While there is no official estimate on damage to crops, roads, bridges and other property, it is certain it will run into the thousands of dollars.

Practically all crops in the bottom lands have been washed-out by the floods, a huge number of corn crops have been beaten into the ground or washed away, and farmers are wondering if and when they'll be able to combine wheat crops.

Walnut Creek Goes Out
Walnut creek on route 2, flowing over the bridge on the Abell road and washed-out another concrete bridge. Residents in that area said that the creek was as high, if not higher, than ever before. In places, the current of the stream was a quarter of a mile wide.

Flat creek covered a huge amount of land and forced many roads closed in this area as did Muddy, north and west of the city.

Rural letter carriers faced a difficult job Friday morning. Many bridges were impassable and many persons were without mail service. The carriers said the roads of their routes have been greatly damaged, but the county has made quick repair in most cases. However, as one carrier put it, as soon as they repair a road another deluge occurs.

Fields Too Wet For Machinery
In many sections, farmers have been unable to put any farm machinery into the muddy fields.

At the Lake of the Ozarks in the neighborhood of Lincoln the rains continued to add to the damage which was estimated in the thousands of dollars. Much wild life was reported to have been lost in the lake area and quail and other wild birds were seen flying from tree tops in the water looking for dry land.

Theft From the Brooks Home

A sneak thief entered the residence of Mrs. Elizabeth Brooks, 417 East Broadway, sometime between midnight Monday and 2:30 a. m. today stealing two ladies pocketbooks which were later discarded in the yard and an Elgin gold watch.

The thief entered through a front door and stole through the house while occupants were asleep, picking up Mrs. Brooks' pocketbook, one of Mrs. Margaret Olson, and the watch of Con Donahue. Exit was out the rear door.

In the yard a hurried search of the pocketbooks was made, $5.00 being taken from that of Mrs. Olson, while contents of Mrs. Brooks were recovered. The watch was stolen.

Mr. Donahue reported the value of the watch was more of an heirloom it being 65 years old.

Skunk Roams Across Lawn At Courthouse

"I tawt I taw a putty tat," but on second look it was only a baby skunk which I had seen crossing the Pettis county courthouse lawn early Wednesday.

This unwelcome guest was jumping around over the lawn as if it were just as much at home there as in a forest.

It was not known how the skunk got there or where it came, but careful onlookers approached the animal with some care before trying to decide if it were really a skunk.

One man who had seen the skunk remarked to another on-looker that the creature was not a skunk, but a civet cat. But what ever it was there was some speculation whether or not the Pettis county courts would rule the animal out of "order."

The American Cancer Society is in a great need of all old white cotton or lined material for making of cancer dressings for needy patients.

Any white material which is absorbent is acceptable.

The following items can be used: Napkins, sheets, underwear, diapers, tablecloths, and pillow cases. Containers in which the material may be deposited will be found at the post office, court house, Missouri Public Service company, and Water company, for all those who want to help in gathering this material for the cancer dressing.

Dorn Cloney laundry has given the service for laundering the material.

The Sisterhood of Temple Beth El is collecting agent for the material.

Anyone having material who cannot for any reason deposit in the container may call 178 or 3822 and it will be picked up.

The making of these dressings will start as soon as enough material is collected and the actual making of the dressings will be at the Cancer Clinic at Bothwell hospital.

Price Panel Is Being Held In Sedalia

Consultants In Explanation of Pricing Policy

The office of the district price executor which is a unit of the O.P.S. held a panel in Sedalia Thursday for the benefit of merchants and businessmen in this district.

Among the personnel which conducted the panel were: Charles Andrews, district price executor; Reginald Smith, district legal counsel; Harry Phekins, chief of services and fuel sections; Samuel White, business analyst of the consumer goods section; Jack Lamar, chief of industrial sections; Keith Keeley, business analyst for restaurants and taverns and Virgil Conkling, chief of the foods sections.

The reason there were many of the consultants here today was that up to four different meetings were held at the same time so as to accommodate the large number of merchants attending.

Mr. Andrews said that the reception the panel received here was very good but that rain and high waters kept some of the businessmen in outlying areas from attending.

Co-operation Given
He also said that co-operation from the Chamber of Commerce and its manager Chester Brown and his chairman Damon Hieronymus was greatly appreciated, in the handling of publicity and business arrangements.

The panel, he said, is a national program being produced by the OPS for the help of businessmen who are not following price laws or who have not been acquainted with such laws.

The local district covers 66 counties in Missouri and two counties in eastern Kansas.

The purpose of the panels is to help people to comply with regulations which are applicable to their business, to keep their regulations straight and to serve businessmen.

It is a policy of the price executor's office to answer questions mailed to them immediately and all inquiries are welcomed by the office and will receive attention and be mailed back before 48 hours after they are received in the office.

Some of the businessmen in this district it is stated, are not complying with the regulations set by the price executor's office.

These people may write to the executor's office and receive any information which they lack about their product prices.

The session ended at 5:00 o'clock with the officials from Kansas City returning there after the close of the panel.

Interpreting The News

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
Associated Press News Analyst

So Congress is wondering why the stockholders—meaning the folks back home—don't write in to say what they want done about economic controls.

Well, this is by no means intended as a definite answer. It is composed from some personal impressions and from discussion with 15 people whom I asked about it between 8 p. m. Wednesday—when the Associated Press reported an unusual lack of mail on such a controversial subject—and 1 p. m. Thursday. Hardly a reliable poll, but producing one thing which seems to be striking.

Every person questioned voluntarily injected, amid the pros and cons of controls, some expression of doubt that the government was capable of doing anything worthwhile about it.

For some time I had been thinking of writing a column about the thought argument. But I haven't been able to get my own thoughts straight.

I think that same feeling must have a strong bearing on the congressional mail situation. We elected a Congress to handle these things for us because they claimed to know how. It now seems fairly obvious that they don't or are unwilling, but what to do? We don't know where to get anybody who does. All is futility. That seems to me to be a growing attitude among people whose vote represents their only participation in politics.

My wife says if we don't have controls, prices are going up, and if we do have controls there will be black markets and prices will go up.

Two other women, questioned separately, said much the same. One thought production and public refusal to be gyped would take care of the situation. She was positive about her fear that government, injecting itself where she felt it was entirely inept, would merely make things worse. The other said controls meant black markets, and that she was sorry she hadn't written her congressman, and intended to do so. "Not that it will do any good."

The men, asked why they didn't write, were unanimous in saying "what's the use?" They didn't think the government knew what it was doing—either the proponents or opponents of controls. Most of them didn't think the government knew what it was doing about anything. One said "I don't trust a congressman for anything." Another said almost exactly the same words in reference to the government as a whole. This usually led to discussion about what to do about that. Futility is generally apparent on that score too. Eisenhower for President was the most generally reply, but with a pretty general doubt, too, as to Eisenhower's ability to get anything out of Congress or run the government because of his inexperience in practical politics.

This is not an attempt to prove anything. It was just a little quiet inquiry among people I happened to talk to. In a different neighborhood it might have turned out differently. I just thought I'd better write my congressman and tell him what little I found.

NLRB Declares Union Shops Are Illegal.
WASHINGTON, July 12.—(P)—Union shop clauses in 4,000 or more AFL and CIO labor contracts throughout the country were in effect declared illegal today in a unanimous ruling of the National Labor Relations Board.

Under the union shop workers are required to become union members and remain so.

The decision is the first based on a recent supreme court decision holding illegal all NLRB actions on behalf of AFL or CIO unions during periods when AFL and CIO officers failed to file non-Communist affidavits with the board.

Today's ruling also cast a legal doubt on bargaining rights won by AFL and CIO unions during these periods, although this point was not specifically ruled upon by the board.

In the case today, the board held that the union shop arrangement made by the CIO Auto Workers union covering 1,360 employees of the forage division of Ford Motor Co., Canton, Ohio, was illegal.

Consent of employees must be obtained in NLRB-conducted elections, under the Taft-Hartley law before the board may grant a union bargaining rights, or before the union can obtain a union shop arrangement from an employer.

The crash occurred on the approach to the Bridgeport slip of the Chester-(Pa)-Bridgeport ferry. The crash:

Lieutenant (JG) Albert Karch, 29, of East Greenwich, R. I.; his wife, Evelyn, and their children, Suzanne, five, and Deborah, two and a half.

Karch and his family were en route to Cedar Park, an Annapolis, Md., suburb, to visit Mrs. Karch's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Speaks. Their guest, June, was traveling with them to visit an aunt in Annapolis.

There was a long line of cars waiting to board the ferries when Karch pulled up. Behind them came a truck trailer, owned by the East Transfer Co., of Elkton, Md., and driven by Michael G. Sharick, 38, of Elkton. The trailer was loaded with beer.

State police said Sharick told them later his brakes did not hold. The tractor crashed into the rear of the Rhode Island car, shoving the nose part way under another tractor trailer just ahead in the line. The rear gasoline tank of the car exploded as did a spare tank on the tractor trailer.

Fire was instantaneous.

Guards Break-Up Chicago Race Riot; 6 Persons Injured.
CHICAGO, July 12.—(P)—Steel-helmeted National Guardsmen—rushed in by trucks—used rifle butts tonight to drive back a mob that smashed into police lines guarding an apartment building where a Negro family has rented a flat.

At least six persons, including three National Guardsmen, were injured and taken to McNeal Memorial hospital in suburban Berwyn.

The crowd peppered the guardsmen, policemen and the apartment building with bricks and stones and firecrackers. Several police cars were damaged by hurled bricks.

The crowds have demonstrated for three nights to prevent the Negro family from moving into the suburb.

Truman Signs Wetback Bill.
WASHINGTON, July 12.—(P)—President Truman today signed the highly controversial "wetback bill" authorizing the recruitment of Mexican farm laborers.

The bill had been urgently supported by southwestern farm interests and opposed by the AFL and CIO.

The White House said the President expects to send Congress a message about the bill tomorrow, presumably outlining steps to halt the illegal immigration of Mexicans across the Rio Grande. These are the "wetbacks" who get the nickname from the fact that many of them swim across the river to the United States.

Gov. Smith To Ask For Federal Aid In Flood Losses.
JEFFERSON CITY, July 12.—(P)—Forrest Smith plans to fly to Washington Sunday to ask for $100,000 flood aid from the federal government.

He said at least part of that would be used to spray inundated areas with DDT to kill disease bearing insects. Dr. Buford G. Hamilton, state health director, regards that as a "must," the governor said.

He said spraying could be done at a cost of around 40 cents an acre, or an estimated total of $50,000 to $60,000.

At the same time the governor relayed Dr. Hamilton's warning to residents in flood areas. He said they should boil drinking water unless their water supply goes through a modern filtration plant. Flood water frequently carries typhoid germs.

Boys Report Seeing Body In Flat Creek

One was manned by James W. Atkinson, 2101 East 16th and W. E. "Bill" Delby, 2001 East 15th, another by Russell Prall, 524 East Fifth and John Prall, 718 East Third; and a third by Lawrence Koeller, 1017 Merriam, and Emmet Fairfax, route 2, who resides near the bridge.

The boats made their way up the swift stream almost to the old dam just below the covered bridge, and then drifted back down stream while men watched for some trace of the reported body.

Prior to the arrival of the boats, Trooper Stohr had secured a rope at the Fairfax farm and took it to the bridge to use in catching the body should it float by. Emmet Fairfax volunteered to be let down into the water by rope.

Boys Stand By Storie.
The boys Charles, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dalman, 2112 South Ohio, and Gary, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fisher, 415 Dal-Wi-Mo court, told a story which was unshakable. Their description, despite their frightened condition upon arrival at police headquarters, convinced the officers the story must be true.

Several hours after the report, Chiefs Neighbors returned to town and called upon the boys and questioned them again about their experiences. He called upon them at their homes, and both boys at different times never varied on their description nor on how the scene looked to them.

About 8:00 p. m. Flat Creek began to fall after it had been out of its banks at several places. By 9:30 p. m. the water were receding into the banks. The creek had fallen more than four feet.

Heavy rains in and around Windsor which fell Wednesday night and early Thursday morning, caused the creek to go into flood stage at mid-day.

Anyone knowing of a missing person is requested to contact Sheriff Taylor, the highway patrol, or Sedalia police giving the party name and description. Efforts, it was said last night, will be made as soon as the creek is back into its banks to search along the creek in hopes of finding something which might lead to what the two boys saw and reported.

The women said he made Mrs. Horner lie on the floor of the car and Mrs. McDowell sit beside him as he drove all night to St. Louis. Mrs. McDowell said Hearn slapped her once and warned the women he would shoot them if they called for help.

The women broke away here and summoned police. Hearn was arrested at a downtown parking lot.

Prisoner Fails In Suicide Try At City Jail.
Grover Kabler, 412 East Saline, now a prisoner in the city jail, attempted suicide Thursday night by cutting his right arm with a sharp piece of tin in his cell. He was taken to the Bothwell hospital in the Ewing ambulance and treated by Dr. J. M. Rodeman, an intern returned to jail.

Kabler was arrested Thursday evening at 400 West Main by Ted Gardner and Elmer Bratton on charges of being drunk and stealing a bicycle, then later trying to peddle the "bike" to a truck driver. He was placed in jail without bond.

He allegedly stole the bicycle from the Liberty Park swimming pool at 4:00 p. m. Thursday.

After being placed in jail, Kabler slashed himself in an attempt to "take the best way out." Another prisoner saw what had happened and yelled for aid.

When questioned by a policeman about his actions, Kabler said he had personal troubles.

He was released from the jail Tuesday after serving a sentence.

The skunk, which resembled the "putty tail" at first, still continued his residence on the Pettis county courthouse lawn Thursday but was staying within the bushes as if he feared it might rain.

However, the "putty tail" is not long for two men, who passed by the courthouse Wednesday evening told August Fischer, the courthouse custodian, that either they had seen double or there were now two of the odorous animals living quietly under the bushes.

Some of the courthouse officials said they hoped the pair would stay just two—and not multiply—for they feared such a scandal might raise a "stink."

WASHINGTON, July 12.—(P)—Allocation of $250,000 for emergency aid to victims of the Kansas floods was announced today by E. Roland Harriman, president of the American Red Cross.

Harriman said thousands of Red Cross disaster volunteer workers are helping in sheltering and feeding those made homeless by the floods.

In addition, he said, 18 trained disaster workers were sent to Topeka and other Kansas flood areas.

He said the flood emergency now does not require a nationwide appeal for disaster funds, but all Kansas Red Cross chapters have been asked to seek financial support for flood relief.

"It is our expectation," Harriman said, "that the traditional neighborliness of the people of Kansas will provide the additional funds to meet this unprecedented disaster situation."
